Nurses' Open Letter To Justin Trudeau

By Canadian Frontline Nurses

Mr Trudeau,

Given your recent public denouncements of our National Health Freedom Movement that took place at varied locations across the country on September 1 and September 13, we would like to take the opportunity to respectfully respond. It feels like an environment is being created that pits family and friends against one another based on medical choices that individuals have made with careful consideration. As healthcare providers we believe that a one size fits all healthcare policy is not wise. There are many factors which need to be considered and Canadians have expressed the desire to contemplate and discuss their decisions with their doctors without any government interference. We believe that doctors should be providing guidance with education and informed consent based on individual needs and that coercion and intimidation has no place in creating a fair, just, healthcare outcome. In the pursuit of advocating for informed consent and medical freedom, we've been threatened, harassed and doxxed. Despite this, we stand with our fellow medical practitioners who also believe in medical choice. Many of them have attended our events. Some of them feel voiceless, pressured and isolated.

Those that stand with us include vaccinated and unvaccinated healthcare workers and citizens who want to see all Canadians survive and thrive through this troubling time. We believe this can only be achieved with transparency, honesty and good intentions. Let us be the first to say that we are not perfect, but we are passionate about advocating for our country and fellow citizens. We are nurses and medical staff who have risked our livelihood to stand against the debilitating effects of lockdowns and now vaccine mandates. We are imperfect, but we swore to be caretakers and provide compassionate, humane support to patients in our care.

because they feel uninformed and would like the opportunity to speak with their doctors about potential long term risks to their children. We believe this decision should not hinder their opportunity to attend school or play sports this coming year.

We are passionate practitioners who want to support medical choice for single mothers who confide in us that they are at risk of losing their income because their employers are insisting that they are vaccinated.

We are diverse in our ideals but, we support medical choice for the first responders, military, doctors and nurses and all professions, who disagree with using force or coercion to make citizens segregated in this great country because of their medical choices.

We support medical choice for the vaccinated parents who are reluctant to have their children vaccinated believe in this approach as our Prime Minister. We encourage you to sit with us and engage in a calm rational discussion on these matters. We take our oath seriously to defend the weak and the sick as well as our communities. We intend on continuing our fight for just policies that recognize all Canadians as equals.

Thank you for your time

Regards,

World Council For Health Launches With Publication Of At-Home Covid Treatment Guide

By World Council For Health

The World Council for Health launches today with a clear-cut mission to provide the latest unbiased scientific guidance as collected from around the world. This doctor-led guidance is to help the public make the best health decisions. It kicks off with a comprehensive guide on how to manage Covid-19 at home.

The World Council for Health is an umbrella coalition, starting with 45 health-focused groups from around the world. They will provide refreshingly honest medical leadership during the covid health emergency and for many other matters of health now and in the future.

One of the World Council for Health’s fundamental principles is to build trust with the public. Confidence in public institutions has been eroding, so The World Council for Health has established itself to be completely independent of governments, pharmaceutical companies and other financial and political stakeholders. In this way the council is free to promote factual and effective health care advice.

In stark contrast to the constant stream of alarming messages fed to the public by governments and other institutions, the World Council for Health offers much hope.

“There are many things that people can do to stay healthy,” says Dr. Tess Lawrie, UK who is part of the steering group for the World Council for Health. She adds, “The World Council for Health will give you the best and latest expert guidance to prevent and manage Covid-19 safely at home. By providing people with the information they need and desire to take charge of their health, the World Council for Health intends to drive out the prevailing climate of uncertainty and fear.”

The covid treatment guide is the first of many in an ambitious plan to produce regular and authoritative guides covering a myriad of health topics. These will be easily accessible in their new website just launched.

Other members of the steering group explain their diverse motivations in establishing the World Council for Health as a force for good in the world:

Dr. Tracy Chandler, from New Zealand Doctors Speaking out with Science (NZDSOS) is unequivocal on the urgent need for an independent health agency. “The World Council for Health will not be another bureaucratic organisation with big donors and private industry ties. It will be transparent and inclusive, inviting public participation and providing practical advice that respects people’s individual health choices. The World Council for Health will innovate corporate governance and transparency by holding public meetings.”

“At no time in history has the freedom to choose been so important. However, to make informed choices, one needs information you can trust. The Council’s job is to bring you this information.” adds Dr. Naseeba Kathrada of the Caring Healthcare Workers Coalition in South Africa.

“Today’s launch is just the first step. Our fresh approach will transcend national borders” predicts Shabnam Palesa Mohamed, South African founder of Transformative Health Justice and International Legal Alliance for Health. “There is no greater need than humanity uniting for truth, health and freedom. As we continue this journey, we welcome other groups aligned with the World Council for Health’s vision to join us in creating a healthier world.”

“This is not about us — it’s about our children and future generations,” Dr. Jennifer Hibberd concludes, “There is a better way, and we’re going to create it together.”

Do The Hard Thing

By ThePamphlet.net

The hard thing for me this year was a deep look into the mirror. Do I have the caliber that it is going to take to make it through the challenging times ahead? I hear the freight train barreling down the tracks. I had better get it figured out because the time of oppression by the wicked is certainly here.

That is the state of mind that I started with. I could not be a student of history and ignore the timelines of the countless collapses. I could not ignore my own life experience in and out of the military. Facts are not fickle things as the enemies of liberty would have you believe.

I now know of my forefathers and the accomplishments that they achieved under their own duress. They survived and they thrived when the British overstepped their authority and devolved into thugs bent on the subjugation of the people at all costs. Like our current government, the British used the guise of law and mandates to brutalize any who were morally opposed to the brutality.

Ultimately, the patience of the angry tyrants turned to force of arms. They dispatched uniformed armed thugs against the people. Those brave farmers and bookkeepers who picked up a musket never to return believed in liberty enough to die for it.

When government seizes power, segregates a people, and determines participation in society, it has lost legitimacy.

All who assist in this process, are as guilty of crimes against humanity as those in the Nuremberg Trials. Some may cringe and call it flamboyant language, but I assure you If you go back and watch them you will see for yourself. Now you get it.

When that same diseased government operates in partnership with other levels of government, corporations, clubs, organizations, foundations, societies, or any other ‘entity’, its corruption spreads. No good thing can come from something that is corrupt.

If armed thugs in uniform come to your family to do what they want to them, what would you do? Here is what they are doing to help you submit. First, they are ensuring that movie theaters, dining out, bars, and even churches will require vaccines. Transportation, services, and businesses of all types are being placed off limits to those who maintain their natural immunity system. The lockstep approach of Governments, corporations, and organizations is designed to solidify their power over the people as employment opportunities and even food stores become off limits. In a short period of time all things will only be accessible to those who are obedient to the system. Turning honest, loyal patriots, and their families into terrorists, criminals, and mobsters all because they insist on maintaining the independence that our ancestors deeded to us through their blood, sweat, and tears.

The monster that is the government-private partnership will continue to squeeze those who resist through propaganda, peer pressure, shame, and ultimately complete exclusion from society. The new gypsies of the world will become a segregated people and as the resilient folk we are, we will start to develop our own economy and systems to survive. But the rage of the unstable left will not rest until we submit or die. Once again, the “Final Solution” will be deployed just like it has so many times in the past. The wicked oligarchy will deploy their uniformed thugs to disappear those that still resist and resist we will.

This is a terrible projection of where we are. But don’t take my word for it. Don’t take anyone’s word for it. Start looking into everything. Trying to validate and prove me wrong. The evidence will speak for itself. Look for supporting arguments and counter arguments to every question you have. Relearn how to get the information you need. Pray to come the inspired and educated decision that will save you and your family’s life. And always remember to hold on to the ability to change a position when more evidence becomes available.

On the other hand, you can turn on Netflix and pretend that the ‘normal’ that we had will return. Let me know how that worked out for you next spring.

Do You Trust Your Government?

By David Wilson
TheLightPaper.co.uk

There can be no trust and ultimately no real democracy without transparency; if the government lies, is economical with the truth or simply allows the media to only show one side of the story, then how can any of us know what is going on, or what we are voting for?

Nowadays, politicians lie with impunity. The media churn out the government propaganda and any who dare to question the official narrative are ignored or dismissed as conspiracy theorists.

It is essential that we point out to people that the governments have lied to us on countless occasions in the past and it is certain that they are lying to us now.

In 2003, I could see that Iraq had no ‘weapons of mass destruction’ and I marched alongside two million others demanding no war. If we knew that there were no weapons of mass destruction, do you really believe for a minute that the biggest ‘intelligence’ agency the world has ever seen couldn’t have figured it out? The U.S. and UK wanted war and they lied to us to ensure they got it.

And now to protect us from a virus that might not be a virus they want us to get a ‘vaccine’ that is not even a vaccine, when the only thing we can be sure of is that the ‘vaccine’ has had no long-term testing, as there has been no long term in which to test it.

Most people should already have doubts and concerns about the integrity and honesty of their government, but many of us have friends and family who trust implicitly, their entire belief system wrapped up in a lifetime of being deceived, and now scared to pull the thread in case that belief-system begins to unravel. These are the people we need to reach out to with clear and concise arguments and information.

Ask why a covid death is still ‘any death that occurs within 28 days of a covid test’. This can only ever be an exaggeration. Most importantly ask why, when covid deaths are so easy to determine and broadcast, that vaccine deaths are so elusive and hardly mentioned.

It is neither pleasant nor easy showing someone that their government is lying, but telling the truth must never be something we should ever feel guilty about. None of us do this solely for ourselves; we do it for friends and family and for everyone who deserves better, in order that we have some sort of freedom, autonomy and dignity in the world we’re living in now and most importantly for the future. And we do this so that our governments and our elected representatives are accountable, that they act honestly in our interests and not the billionaires who line their pockets.

I am not a religious person, but I can see the merit of the ten commandments; a guide to ALL the people, rich and poor. The ninth commandment is generally translated as ‘Thou shalt not lie’. The legal system is based on the idea that everyone should tell ‘the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth’. So what went wrong?

The Official Secrets Act (OSA) has its place; I wouldn’t have expected Churchill in 1944 to have announced ‘next week we will be invading France, at Normandy’. That is the sort of event the OSA is designed for, but at the end of WWII it should have been reduced, not expanded to cover anything the state does not want the public to know. It’s a licence to lie, deceive and commit horrendous crimes under the cover of ‘national security’.

They are continuing to exaggerate the ‘covid deaths’, they aren’t telling us about the THOUSANDS of ‘vaccine’ deaths, and they aren’t telling us where the disease came from. Anyone still trusting the government?

Many people are asking how we can possibly win against such enormous odds. Anyone who has ever climbed a mountain will know that you can rarely see the summit when you start out. All you can do is prepare as best you can and take one step at a time. We have the truth on our side and the longer this goes on the more ridiculous the propaganda and lies will seem. Then, as the cogs start whirring and the unravelling begins, they themselves might start asking questions and join us as we climb that mountain... one step at a time.

Alternatives To Tyranny

By Beverley Dujay-Macdonald

Have you noticed that there is currently a fracture forming in our society, a mental fracture based on fear? This fracture created by the ‘fear of covid’ has sadly succeeded in dividing ordinary citizens into a “you versus me” scenario around the entire scope of this planet. For the first time in history almost every country is engaged in a battle amongst its own people within its own borders. First, we have those people who are fearful of the virus, who follow the rules whether just or unjust and who are willing to allow those in authority tell them what to do in order to help them out and/or save them. And then we have another group that divides itself in two. On the one side there are those who think the whole covid scenario is a hoax, and others who do believe the virus is real but don’t want resulting government imposed mandates or planned agendas by oligarchs dictating their lives and freedoms. Most people in this group believe that mankind is being propelled towards a dangerous technocratic dictatorial society based on tyranny.

Tyranny in the Oxford Dictionary is defined as “cruel and arbitrary use of authority.” Whether or not you see, believe or care, tyranny in various forms exists on this planet. Some people see tyranny show up in such places as income tax, police states, surveillance, dictatorship, war and even the covid narrative. When such tyranny is combined with dangerous technologies it is obvious to witness a very serious planned agenda unfolding. The expert oligarchs are bringing into being the 4th Industrial Revolution. The merging of biology with technology holds their grandest vision in creating “order out of the chaos.” One might ask how chaos began in the first place. Perhaps tyranny? Their highest priority right now is global surveillance and computer tracking, beginning with the vaccine passport, an easy technology to keep a watchful eye on every human being in the hopes of creating “order.” Do you really agree with this? Next is the science of combining real life forms with biodiversity and artificial intelligence. (Watch YouTube video titled, Meet Grace, The Health Care Robot Created for the Coronavirus Crisis.) Warning! Don’t watch before bed if you prefer to sleep. There is a nightmare of ‘technical combined with biological’ scenarios on the future agenda for mankind. Check out Horizons Canada to see how our country is moving ahead with game plans for Canadians. (See: horizonscanada.ca) These themes tantalize the mind and ignore the soul. Are big bad wolves in sheep’s clothing creating the rules? There is now a new game board at play and every individual could be a pawn. Who, in the current reality is going to make the next move?

Instead of remaining on the game board battling tyranny there are thousands of citizens who have found an alternative. These people are creating a new reality...a more organic and natural free-society worldwide. Believing that mankind exists to act as shepherds of the Earth and not as parasites, these wise citizens are designing their own real food production systems, organizing off-grid technology, organizing short wave groups, creating de-centralized banking systems and focusing on natural health using plant medicines and healing energy modalities to name only a few...and always with reverence for the planet. Even children are being home-schooled. Human rights activist Malcolm

X once said, “Only a fool would let his enemy teach his children.” The very future of humanity’s existence lies within the hearts and minds of what we teach our children now. Do we really want our next generation to be governed by fear (false information appearing real)? The Freedom Cell Network (See: freedomcells.org), which is associated with “The Greater Reset,” as well as other platforms such as ThreeSixNine Media — Critical Thought Media for Critical Mass Action (See: threesixninemedia.com) remain de-centralized and work peer to peer with absolutely no hierarchy.

Everyone helps each other by sharing and teaching what they know. Creating new networks, new institutions and new support structures that equally benefit every single human being is now in the minds of many. Connecting with the planet through body, mind and soul awareness is a natural law of the Universe. Similar cell groups are popping up in small communities locally as well as internationally with visions of creating a future reality with less tyrannical government interference. These folk have a long way to go to see such change, but they are seriously co-creating new communities now! Such heart-focused people will support the re-shaping of the world into a lawful and equitable way that honours the sacredness of all sentient life.

This is perhaps the one and only time in the history of mankind that will provide opportunity for human beings to truly wake-up to the miracles that we are. Let not fear be humanity’s fuel, but rather humanity’s strength. It is by leaning into fear that we can find individual courage to move forward with the vision of reshaping our world into a more friendly and undivided place. The future of our children and of our very planet depends on what we, as a conscious awakened humanity do...precisely now! Living consciously as sovereign Beings may be the only catalyst we have in which to stop the tyranny.

Let The Kids Play

By GameOnCanada.org

The Government Covid-19 Pandemic took the country by fearful storm in March of 2020. All aspects of social assembly came to a halt, including youth sports. For the next 17 months our children would be condemned to a whole year of social distancing, masks and periods of isolation. We watched as our children suffered in silence, missing their friends, school, sports, art classes, singing lessons and just normal everyday play. We watched our children slowly slip into a quiet reserve; withdrawing from the world, forgetting how to play. They became irritable and depressed. Standing by any longer and allowing the government to destroy our children’s mental and physical health was no longer an option; Rise Up Durham decided it was time for the children to play!

Dermot Pomeroy, father of three, rep hockey & baseball coach and founder of the group, Rise Up Durham, led the charge holding zoom meetings with the other members of the group. He watched as his three children suffered without their friends, especially his youngest, who only had 2 years of school under her belt and friendship circles hardly established; Dermot decided it was time to “let the kids play”. The first kids play date was established. It was an old-fashioned neighbourhood potluck picnic in the park. Flyers were created, posters shared all over social media and word of mouth spread the news quickly of united defiance of the lockdowns in order for our children to play with other children.

The first play date was so successful, it became a weekly ritual. By-law Officers did their best to break up the play dates, but the determination of the parents to make play normal again was too strong for the By-law to manage and the families were able to continue to meet and play weekly sharing the joy around to the different parks throughout Durham Region. Word of mouth and social media pictures sharing the squeals and laughter of the kids helped to spread the word of these popular play dates.

Eventually, Shari St. Louis and Ryan Penn of Take Action Canada caught wind of the play dates. They reached out to Dermot to offer their help in spreading the word and taking the initiative to a larger platform; Game On Canada, Let the Kids Play was born. The website was set up and promotion of the Kids Playdates in the park began. Rise Up Durham began reaching out to other groups to encourage all family-oriented events to be posted on the website GameOnCanada.org. It is a one-stop-shop to make it easier for families to connect with one another and for children to experience normal play with other children again.

Rise Up Durham did not stop. Even after the members of the group received over 20 summons’ and tickets for proceeding to try to live life normal by holding organized playdates; they added music fests, church services and assemblies for freedom to their repertoire of family events. Seventeen months into the lockdown and Rise Up Durham had become a strong leader in the freedom fighter movement and that is when the Government and Chief Medical Officer announced mandating the experimental COVID-19 Vaccines. Once again, Rise Up Durham rose to the occasion. Jody Ledgerwood spear-headed a campaign to educate the public on their rights regarding the illegal experimental COVID-19 vaccines.

While Rise Up Durham was busy educating the public on their rights, Joe Anidjar, another concerned parent, had received a letter from the GTHL mandating vaccines on his children wanting to play rep hockey. Knowing this was completely wrong and illegal, Joe decided he needed to take action to not only protect his children from an experimental vaccination but all children that wanted to play sports. He founded the facebook group, Families Against The Health Pass in Kids Sports. Joe was hoping to connect with other concerned parents to try to figure out a way to fight back against the illegal mandates so that all children could play sports without having to take the experimental COVID-19 vaccines. To Joe’s surprise, in under 2 weeks he had amassed over 6,000 members sharing his same concerns. Information was shared, open discussions took place and letter writing campaigns ensued. Realizing the group name was a bit cumbersome, Joe changed the name to Youth Sports Freedom Fighters.

For the love of sports and our children, everyone is encouraged to stand strong, together, and repeat; I Do Not Consent!

The team’s speaking appearances have garnered an overwhelming response from the crowds and across the country; their emails have exploded with requests for the legal packages. Concerned parents have been using the legal packages to help educate other sports associations to rethink, and in some cases, reverse their illegal mandates regarding forced vaccinations on our children in order to play sports.

For more information or to find out how you can help in protecting our children from illegal vaccine and mask mandates check out the website GameOnCanada.org. or join Rise Up Durham or Youth Sports Freedom Fighters on FaceBook and Telegram. For the love of Children and Sport, join the fight against tyranny!

Airline Workers In Canada Fight Back Against Vaccine Passport Mandates

By Harold Jackson

For our entire history, Canadians have enjoyed constitutionally guaranteed freedom of movement, most recently in flight.

Free to Fly is a rapidly growing group fighting for freedom, for every Canadian. Founded initially by four pilots at a major Canadian airline, it now has well over 2000 pilots, flight attendants and other aviation workers from across all major Canadian airlines. More importantly, 13,000 passengers have joined the fight and the movement continues to grow.

Their website reads “We hold dear our health freedoms and our right to liberty and security of the person under section 7 of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and upheld by the Supreme Court. We unequivocally support our passengers’ and colleagues’ rights and freedoms, and their freedom to fly”

A recent update to their 15,000 members outlined, “When it comes to Canada, the size of our great nation makes connection uniquely dependent on air travel. Sadly, we’re hearing painful stories every day; families thousands of miles separated, soon with no easy options for reconnecting. Budding dreams and lifelong careers are being crushed by the bullying fist of private policy. Imagine if employers barred mobility or hired and fired based on food choices, or perhaps exercise discipline?”

A major roadblock for unionized employees with recent vaccination mandates is there are few options outside union representation when it comes to the litany of rights violations. Most airline employees are unionized and their leadership has generally been unwilling to stand against employers. Westjet’s Master Executive Council was initially supportive, advising members not to disclose vaccination status, but reversed course following the Canadian election results.

Air Canada’s pilot union, the Air Canada Pilot’s Association initially affirmed members’ rights to choice but also reversed course in early September, going so far as to remind members, “The Company can request, and is entitled to receive, your vaccination status” and in a statement that can only be seen as highly coercive as it specifies harm in seeking legitimate accommodation, “Non-compliance/ accommodation under the Company’s policy will have far-reaching impacts on one’s livelihood and career, up to and including loss of income through unpaid leaves of absence and/or termination of employment.”

Certainly everyone loves their kids or grandkids. This is about the world we are leaving them. If we won’t stand up, now, they may never know the freedoms we once enjoyed”

The group is formally aligned with several other groups advocating for liberty across the nation, as seen on their website, and is seeking to coalesce with more to grow in united efforts with larger numbers.

The same founding member continued, “I was recently wrestling with images coming out of Afghanistan, the horror of desperate locals plummeting from the wheels of aircraft to their death. What struck me most deeply was what each of those Afghani’s clearly knew, from experience: freedom is unmatched, worth life itself and has unspeakable cost when lost. Much of society seems unaware, but worse I fear none of us truly understand what its loss means. Unless we all step up and fight, with all we’re worth, we may soon find out.”

Free to Fly has mounted a blue-ribbon campaign. Anyone can drop by their website (www.free2fly.info) and order blue ribbons for their luggage or clothing, a visual sign of unity for health freedom and informed consent.

Vaccine Passports Are A Very Big Deal

By Andy Clark

Huddle recently published a commentary entitled, Vaccine Passports Are Not A Big Deal. In my view, nothing could be further from the truth. Whether you are in favour of them or not, make no mistake: Vaccine passports are a very big deal. They fundamentally alter the relationship between our government and its citizens. They go to the very root of what it means to be Canadian. Canada is supposed to be one of the most — if not THE most — inclusive countries in the world. Yet the effect of vaccine passports is to exclude, to divide, and to discriminate based on personal medical choices.

Proponents of vaccine passports argue that those who have decided not to take Covid-19 vaccines should not be allowed in public places like restaurants, bars, concerts, gyms, and so on. In other words, they believe that unvaccinated people should be excluded from several aspects of public life.

Think about that for a moment. Unvaccinated people should be excluded from several aspects of public life. What if you were to replace, in the previous sentence, the word Unvaccinated with Catholic, or Liberal, or Conservative, or Divorced, or Elderly, or any other group of people sharing a common characteristic? That wouldn't sound very Canadian, would it?

While there is undoubtedly and unfortunately systemic discrimination of disadvantaged people in Canada, in no other context is it okay to publicly discriminate against a specific group of people. But that's exactly what we are doing with the promotion of vaccine passports. History has shown us that purposefully discriminating against and segregating certain groups of people — particularly in the context of “government knows best” — always leads to regrettable, if not horrendous, consequences. Vaccine passports run counter to the legal and moral free from coercion. It is a cornerstone of free societies. It is protected by Canadian common law, by our Charter of Rights and Freedoms, and by international law.

Personal medical choices, such as the decision whether or not to take Covid-19 vaccines, should be made only within the context of what a person considers to be in his or her best interests from a personal health perspective.

Vaccine passports and other mandatory vaccination policies turn a personal medical decision into a decision not about health outcomes, but about choosing between the right to informed consent to medical treatment and the right to participate fully in society. That is coercion with a capital “C”. That is a very big deal and is not what this country should stand for.

We know that there are high-risk and low-risk groups in terms of the likelihood of serious illness or death from Covid-19. Therefore, the risk-benefit analysis for Covid-19 vaccines can vary widely from person to person based on their individual circumstances. The analysis is vastly different for a 17-year-old than it is for a 77-year-old, or for someone in excellent health vs. someone with several underlying health conditions.

When it comes to personal medical choices, even people of similar age and circumstances can arrive at different decisions and both be right in terms of what they deem best for themselves and their families. Free and democratic societies respect that.

As Canadians, do we really want to go down the path of excluding fellow citizens from aspects of public life for making a choice that may be different from that of the majority? Do we really want to become a “show us your papers” society? If we do, we will all be stepping on the most slippery of slopes, and that is a very big deal.

Perhaps more than anything, vaccine passports are a big deal because of the questionable premise on which they are based — that is, that vaccinated people must be protected from Covid-19 by protecting them from unvaccinated people. But aren't vaccinated people protected from Covid-19-related illness by Covid-19 vaccines?

We have been encouraged since the day vaccines became available, and every day since, to get vaccinated precisely because they are so highly effective at preventing Covid-19 — in Pfizer's case, 100 percent protection against serious disease, according to the company. So why the need for vaccinated people to also be protected from the unvaccinated?

Adding to the confusing messaging on this topic is the recent announcement by the director of America's leading disease control agency that vaccinated people and unvaccinated people can similarly transmit the delta variant to others. This runs counter to the prevailing narrative that only the unvaccinated spread the virus, and it further undermines the supposed need for vaccine passports.

Are these contradictions and mixed messages really the basis on which we can justify the discrimination, segregation, and limits on personal freedom that vaccine passports create?

If vaccine passports are implemented in Canada, let's make sure we do it with eyes wide open. Let's make sure we are prepared to alter what it means to be Canadian. Let's understand that we are unwinding the legal and moral fabric of our country and that we are repeating mistakes of our past.

Let's admit that vaccine passports, while disguised as a public health measure, are in reality a punishment for people exercising their legal rights to informed consent to medical treatment. And let's be clear that all of this is a very big deal.

Andy Clark is a business owner, father of four school-aged children, and a member of the New Brunswick Law Society and the Canadian Bar Association. He lives in Fredericton.

fabric of our country. If we implement vaccine passports (or any variation of a “no jab, no work/no school/no entry policy”), we violate the doctrine of informed consent to medical treatment. Informed consent is only achieved when people are able to make personal medical choices

Justice Centre gives Ontario final warning over vax passports

By jccf.ca

TORONTO: The Justice Centre for Constitutional Freedoms has issued a legal warning letter to the Ontario Government on behalf of four clients demanding the vaccine passport mandate be revoked immediately. The law requires Ontarians as young as 12 to provide proof of two doses of the Covid mRNA vaccination as of September 22, 2021, or be denied access to a wide range of businesses and organizations, including field trips to city facilities. The Justice Centre has notified the Province that it will file a legal action should Ontario fail to halt its unconstitutional discrimination against those who have not yet chosen to receive the experimental vaccines.

Since the vaccine passport has been announced, the Justice Centre has received hundreds of emails from Ontarians concerned about loss of employment, loss of ability to worship, and denial of access to restaurants, bars, gyms, sporting events, meeting and event spaces, and more, unless they show proof of their confidential medical status of vaccination.

Ontario's Ministry of Health has stated that the government will only recognize two medical exemptions for vaccine passports: one for those who are allergic to an ingredient in the vaccine, with verification provided by an allergist, and another for those who experienced myocarditis or pericarditis after the first dose of a vaccine. There has been no provision for exemptions based on religion and creed, both protected grounds under the Charter and Human Rights Act.

Covid mRNA vaccination shots are new, with no long-term safety profile, and clinical trials will not be complete until 2023. As such, the Covid shots are experimental. Canadians have the right to informed consent, and the right to be fully informed about the side effects of the Covid vaccine, which has known side effects. The vaccine manufacturers have stated there is no data on the vaccine's effects on fertility, or their safety for pregnant women or children. Emerging data unequivocally establishes that the Delta variant spreads freely in the fully vaccinated population, and there are emerging links to miscarriages in pregnant women and a demonstrated risk of heart inflammation in teenage males.

On their face, vaccine passports are an infringement of Canadians' constitutionally protected rights to freedom of conscience, the right to liberty and security of the person, and the right to be equal before the law. Based on these guarantees, every Canadian has the right to bodily autonomy and to decide what medical procedure to accept or reject. The demand letter asserts that mandatory vaccination for Covid constitutes a significant, unwarranted and profound infringement on the rights of Canadians that cannot be justified in a free and democratic society.

“Section 7 of the Charter guarantees the right to liberty and security of the person. Ontarians should not be coerced or pressured by the government into submitting to a medical intervention to which they do not consent. Informed consent and the right to bodily autonomy are two principles that our laws have long protected. It will be a tragedy to see Ontarians, including children, being coerced to take the vaccine, or else be socially marginalized,” says Jorge Pineda, Staff Lawyer at the Justice Centre.

Individuals who have not been vaccinated for a variety of reasons, including religious belief, creed, and medical issues or concerns over serious side effects, will effectively be segregated and marginalized. Their participation in society will become limited to what is deemed “essential” by the government.

“The new mandate will have the effect of segregating individuals and especially young children from mainstream society. Mandating a system that denies Canadian's access to certain services that are arbitrarily defined as nonessential by the government creates a slippery slope, and sets a dangerous descent into a medical dictatorship,” notes Justice Centre staff lawyer Henna Parmar.

“If we do not put an end to these measures, we will be putting unlimited power in the hands of the government to dictate what medical care we receive, what drugs we take, and what privileges they will allow us that should be fundamental rights,” adds Ms. Parmar.

Being Awake Now

By Guy Crittenden

I can't remember entering an autumn with such a feeling of anticipation. Of trepidation. As I type these words, a new video plays across the room of Australian police shooting people with rubber bullets. In the back.

I recall a time when we treated the flu with bedrest and chicken soup...

Those of us in the research community who are awake know this has nothing to do with a virus. Being awake now means knowing germ theory is bunk. At least the COVID psyop forced us to learn that. Just wait until the normies learn viruses don't jump from person to person.

Or that they may not exist at all.

(I commend to you talks from American Dr Zach Bush, and Canadian holistic health practitioners Amandha Vollmer and also Brett Hawes.)

Society is being reordered on a grand scale. Oh, and we're being culled. (I had to mention that.)

The crimes are vast, but whistleblowers have come forward. There will be a Nuremberg 2.0 trial. At least we must pray for one.

These oligarchs don't call themselves The Olympian's for nothing. We're cattle to them, in need of tagging, herding and surveillance. We're to live on cricket protein, don't you know?

To be awake now is not the same as "woke." We are not the politically-correct social justice warriors who hang out in the intersectional gender fluid space of critical race theory and cultural Marxism, who consider Hillary Clinton a torch-bearing feminist, and slavishly support Astroturf groups like BLM and Antifa and Extinction Rebellion, and whose communitarian values exchange freedom for security. (I wear my mask to keep you safe!)

These are the people who believe Julian Assange belongs in jail.

The former Occupy Wall Street crowd is set to swipe their vaccine passports and virtue signal their way into a Pied Piper mountain of special-access restaurants, banks, supermarkets and malls while the unjabbed Untermensch remain outside. It will be a society of lineups, pass cards, document checks, flashing lights, and midnight door knocks eerily familiar to any former citizen of an Eastern Block country, or South Africa under Apartheid, or Gaza today.

We're all Palestinians now.

Being awake now requires that we acknowledge our true history and that a coup d'état occurred in Dallas, Texas on Friday, November 22, 1963; the CIA or deep state has controlled the United States government ever since. JFK, RFK, MLK and even JFK Jr.: The three-letter agencies did all the three-letter assassinations. The latter half of 20th-century America was a Shakespearean competition between two oligarchic families that got their start in bootlegging and bank grift and ended with assassinations (and, in the case of the Nazi banking family, two presidencies).

Being awake now means acknowledging the oligarchs didn't march us all to the edge of town and have us dig a mass grave only to send us all home when we began to get suspicious. Being awake now means recognizing that global supply chains are collapsing, and this is no accident. Starvation is the favourite tool of totalitarians (along with fear-based brainwashing), and recent genocides in the many millions should tell us this is not as impossible as some assume.

It's always the people who don't want to make a fuss that lead everyone into the gas chambers.

Being awake now requires that we recognize hospital administrators are lying to the public, manipulating or hiding data, and have euthanized many thousands of our elderly in care homes and hospitals. Think ventilators. Think Remdisivir and Midazolam.

To be awake now one must acknowledge that the governments of almost 200 countries are controlled by international agencies related to the United Nations and the World Economic Forum — what German class action lawyer Reiner Fuellmich calls the "Davos crowd" and what former American investment banker Catherine Austin Fitts calls "Mr. Global." All the Rockefeller-originated institutions are enemies of humanity, including the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund, the World Health Organization, and those secretive organizations like the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), the Bilderberg group, the Trilateral Commission, among others. The UN and WEF need to be dismantled. Their leaders need to stand trial.

They're coming for the children.

Being awake now means acknowledging that both the US and more recent Canadian elections were fraudulent. The legacy media won't seriously investigate this, any more than they looked into PizzaGate, which later morphed into the Jeffrey Epstein affair.

Speaking of Epstein, being awake now requires that we acknowledge Epstein didn't hang himself, which raises disturbing questions about who killed him (if he's even dead and not living in Tel Aviv recovering from plastic surgery) and that he and his handler Ghislaine Maxwell operated their honey trap on behalf of Mossad/Israel, which appears to control much of the US federal government. And US imperialism played a massive role in laying the groundwork for the present situation. Nationalism is of limited value here.

We actually do need a new world order and a great reset — just not of the kind envisioned but Klaus Schwab and Bill Gates. Perhaps the one described by John Lennon in his song Imagine.

Being aware now means knowing that every war of the past 100 years has been a banker's war. A story arc traverses the eugenicist and sterilization movements of the early 20th century and the technocratic scheme being deployed now.

The Nazis weren't defeated; they simply went underground until technology caught up with their dreams.

Being aware now means confronting the utter lie of global warming (rebranded "climate change") as we enter an era of deep cooling in the Grand Solar Minimum. And knowing those "quarantine camps" aren't for the sick: they're for dissidents. Or they will be, eventually.

Life will include homesteading for many of us. Home gardens will become popular, along with chicken coops, beehives, thrift and inventiveness. Homemade clothes. Hand-made houses. Micro-energy generators. Old silver coins (for barter). Home remedies.

We might return to the truly ancient ways — what Terence McKenna presciently called the Archaic Revival. Beyond a Mennonite lifestyle (or life on the Holodeck), an Earth Mother goddess-venerating culture that dances naked and ingests psychedelic plants could emerge. Why not?

Perhaps Burning Man was pointing to something important after all...

Being awake now requires that we understand the spiritual dimension of the current assault. This is the ultimate war now for the soul of humanity. We are being ruled, not governed. And the battlefield has shifted from the sands of the Middle East and the jungles of Southeast Asia to our bodies themselves. Even the definition of immunity has been changed! (Only vaccines confer immunity now, apparently.) The technocrats are injecting us with nanotech to sterilize, kill and control. And you thought those 5G towers were for faster download speeds! Instead, we're nano-dust-filled antennae. We're to be mined like crypto like the human batteries in The Matrix film trilogy.

Being awake now means we're about to learn our true history. This will include disclosure that, based on our genes, it's provably impossible that we descended from a common ape ancestor. (Hint: we escaped the lab; Sumerian texts are about to gain in popularity, along with credible analysis of UFOs and crop circles.)

These may be dark times — a Kali Yuga — but being awake now affords us an opportunity to burn off lifetimes of karma. Or, for Christians, to enjoy the "revelations" of The Revelation. We're witnessing, in real time, living colour, people lining up to take the Mark of the Beast without which many of us, as of September, cannot buy or sell.

Being awake now requires that we recognize robots and automated systems are being installed, to enforce a Chinese-style social credit system that a recent Canadian document described in positive terms as the "access economy." Taken together with the Policy Horizons Canada pamphlet Exploring Biodigital Convergence, it's clear that Canada (along with most other countries) crashed its economy on purpose at the behest of central bankers and Silicon Valley plutocrats, to destroy the middle class and create dependency on a system of AI-controlled central bank digital currency and a transhumanist agenda that sees opportunity in "hackable human animals" and their surveillable metabolisms. We will rent, not own. And our participation in — er, "access" to — civil society will be determined by compliance with algorithms programmed by social scientists, enforced initially by Kevlar-suited security guards but in time by Boston Dynamics robots, automated doors and turnstiles, and (eventually) drones.

Better watch out for that dragon fly. Is it organic? Or was it sent to vaccinate you?

The Pretendent of the United States murders people every day by remote control drone. They've been working on these things...

Being awake now means knowing soul-denying, Godless oligarchs like Klaus Schwab and Bill Gates hope to extend their (not your) lifespans long enough to one day upload their consciousness into synthetic bodies and live forever. (They really think this.)

Being awake now means prepping for food and equipment shortages, hyperinflation (or stagflation), a possible staged alien invasion, a possible cyber attack on the internet and/or energy systems, and increased violence from militarized police. As we do so, we must remind ourselves the universe is a synchronistic self-organizing system (ultimately a hologram of pure consciousness). A nondual teacher might point out that it's all Brahma's dream — but in any case, eventually the light prevails (or at least achieves homeostasis with) the dark.

How much suffering occurs before that balance is achieved is up to us. We are the ones we've been waiting for. It was always thus.

Technocratic Takeover

By Deputy Sheriff Vincent Cavaleri
of Snohomish County

The word technocracy has been thrown around quite a bit as of late; and with good reason. Just what is it exactly? The idea of a technocracy has been tried and implemented before; and seems to have gained traction in western civilization. At the end of the day, it is simply a Marxism style takeover of the people, and the means of production through technological advancement. Elitists using technology to corner the market on the world's assets and population. Complete government control of society and industry by an elitist group of technical experts. Sounds enticing, right?

People that discuss this openly are called conspiracy theorists, or worse. Whatever the derogatory terms alleged, there is plenty of truth in their technocratic claims. There are plenty of archetypes of this oppressive movement. In fact, 1990's Soviet Union and today's China are classic paradigms of a technocratic society. George Orwell's book 1984 digs deep into the depths of totalitarianism and technocracy. The two are completely intertwined. The parallels unfolding in today's western civilizations are strikingly similar.

Marxism, fascism, socialism and communism are all cut from the same totalitarian cloth. They seek dominion over its people through class-warfare and nationalization of industry. These totalitarian ideologies are designed to create a society of downtrodden citizens over whom the elite have total control through poverty and strife. The haves and that have nots. The clean and the unclean. Segregation, discrimination and indoctrination keep the masses at odds and effectively needing government oversight, 24-7. Chaos in the streets, continued public crises, civil rights abuses and so much more tether massive government intrusion and surveillance to every citizen's liberty.

The term "big brother is watching you" originated from Orwell's book. The idea that government is watching you all the time is an accurate depiction of today's technological advancements, both here in America and abroad. Advancements in artificial intelligence, facial recognition and quantum computing, all connected to the 5G network, and stored in the cloud until needed. What could possibly go wrong with this?

Orwell's literary masterpiece was written in 1948, but one can't help making comparisons to today's dystopiour founders thought of everything. How they saw these abusers of liberty coming a mile away. The tenth amendment essentially relegates power to the individual states. Our founders knew and feared expanded powers of the federal government could be destructive to democracy, so they insisted on this amendment during ratification.

This is where the solution lies in today's attempted hostile takeover of America. The protections of state power in the tenth amendment stated: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." Most people are unaware that oppressive COVID mandates do not exist in red states. Therefore, a governor like Ron DeSantis can ban vaccine passports in his state. Or Christi Noem of South Dakota banning critical race theory in her state, just to give a couple of examples. They can hold corporations and organizations accountable that violate their state's constitutions. This is how big tobacco and big pharma were held accountable.

This is where the battle must be waged with tech companies, pharmaceutical companies, the media, public education and the corrupted elected leaders supporting their technocratic takeover. Big pharma, big tech, the healthcare industry, insurance companies and the media are uniquely connected through business ventures and intertwined ownership; and have a vested interest in each other's an America. Governments' continued attempt to break the will of the people through continued hardships and despair in their communities is usually the first step towards technocratic implementation.

1984 was required high school reading, but you would be hard pressed to find a copy in today's woke public schools. Orwell despised Hitler and Stalin and their brutal totalitarian ideologies; and portrayed the possibilities for future societies perfectly. Oppressive style dictatorships served only to enslave the masses, while lifting a group of elites to power and riches. It's important we recognize history repeating itself.

In times of great trials and tribulations, we should always defer to the U.S. Constitution. I often wonder how success.

These modern-day carpetbaggers are the robber barons of our time. Sadly, it's much more diabolical than just monetary gain. This is a zero-sum game and they take no prisoners. It's all about consolidating power and carrying out a globalist agenda, technocracy facilitates their vision. If we fail to act to protect our republic, I fear there will be no turning back. Use the Constitution and the courts to your advantage. Help take back America one state at a time.

God bless all of you.

WHO Releases Plan For Global Digital Vaccine Passports Funded By Bill Gates & Rockefeller Foundation

By: The European Union Times

The World Health Organization (WHO) has released a proposal backed by two major globalist organizations that serves as a blueprint for governments to implement a worldwide vaccine passport verification system.

The document, called "Digital Documentation of COVID-19 Certificates: Vaccination Status," funded by none other than the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and the Rockefeller foundation, describes the technical guidance for governments to roll out the program to usher in a global digital ID — in the name of COVID, of course.

"This document lays out an approach for creating a signed digital version of a vaccination record for COVID-19 based on a core data set of key information to be recorded, and an approach for the digital signature. The document leverages existing free and open standards, and is driven by the ethics, use cases and requirements for Digital Documentation of COVID-19 Certificates: Vaccination Status (DDCC:VS)."

"This document is therefore software-agnostic and provides a starting point for Member States to design, develop and deploy a DDCC:VS solution for national use in whichever format best suits their needs (e.g. a paper card with a one-dimensional [1D] barcode or QR code stickers, or a fully functioning smartphone application developed internationally or locally)."

"The primary target audience of this document is national authorities tasked with creating or overseeing the development of a digital vaccination certificate solution for COVID-19. The document may also be useful to government partners such as local businesses, international organizations, non-governmental organizations and trade associations that may be required to support Member States in developing or deploying a DDCC:VS solution."

The DDCC:VS is meant for use at schools, at work, for international travel, and for contact tracing initiatives.

The document also shows its proposed vaccine passport template, with a QR code featured on the front, but further in the app shows personal information about the number of vaccines received.

A similar vaccine passport project in the works, called CommonPass, is also backed by the Rockefeller Foundation and the World Economic Forum (WEF).

It's notable how the only groups actively pushing for global vaccine passports are also the main proponents of the so-called Great Reset, a post-human plan outlined by WEF founder Klaus Schwab which seeks to deindustrialize the West, abolish private property, introduce biometric surveillance, and move humanity to a diet of bugs in the name of fighting climate change.

How To Have Your Own Personal Zen Master Around Anytime You Descend Into Stress

By Richard Enos
Collective-Evolution.com

When you look at a true spiritual master, guru or yogi, one of the most remarkable things you might notice is that they don't seem to experience stress. You might conclude that they arrive at this state through meditation, fasting, prayer, or other such disciplines. This is only partly true. Those spiritual practices can certainly contribute to stress reduction, but their ultimate effect is to support the maintenance of ONE KEY THOUGHT that spiritual masters hold in their minds (and bodies) with unfailing certainty.

Granted, this key thought is not easy to grasp, hold as truth, and then deeply embody within yourself. Throughout history spiritual masters have done their darndest to articulate it for those hoping for inner peace and harmony. The limitations of language, of all human languages, is woefully revealed in these attempts. But if you are ready, open, and genuinely seeking—an 'aspirant' as they say in yoga—then it becomes possible for a certain expression or turn of phrase to begin to activate your deeper inner knowledge of the state some call samadhi, enlightenment, Christ consciousness, or what I like to simply term presence. Are you ready?

Stress-Free Perception

In a true state of presence it is impossible to feel stress. Impossible. That is because stress is predicated on our seeing the world as dualistic. In a state of presence we embody a perception of singularity. The apperception of the world as whole, as unified, is truth unmasked.

From a perception of unity there is no past or future, there is only now. Note that human experience is only ever experienced through the now, past experiences were only ever experienced in the now, and the same will hold for our future experiences. Having the experience of presence helps us get a glimpse that time itself is a fabrication, a 'program' that helps our intentionally limited minds have a particularly lush and interesting kind of experience in the physical world.

How We Create Stress

But let's get back to our everyday time-bound consciousness. For those of you who earnestly seek to dissolve your stress, and are open and willing to let go of anything your mind is clinging to in order to achieve it, I will try to explain the one key thought.

The experience of stress is the experience of the tension or dissonance between two things: how your world IS in any moment, and how you think it SHOULD BE. You create stress by carrying in your mind an image of how something in the NOW—yourself and others, the presence or absence of things, the weather—is NOT OK as it is. That puts you into a self-created adversarial relationship with the only point of contact you have with life.

Fortunately, your emotions alert you to this crazy con-fabulation, by making you aware of internal discomfort you label as STRESS. This STRESS is nothing more than an urgent signal from your higher intelligence to return to presence. But in a state of stress how can you possibly return to presence?

The One Key Thought Into Presence

You need to get into the habit of using your awareness of your own stress as a trigger to align yourself with this one key thought: everything is perfect as it is. It's like having your own personal Zen master around any time you descend into stress asking you the well-worn koan, 'What, in this moment, is lacking?'

It works. Trust me.

But it only works to the extent that you are willing to let go of the past (and future), along with all your judgments, grievances, 'shoulds', hopes, and fears that arise out of a dualistic perception. If you are truly willing and able to deeply hold this one key thought as ULTIMATE truth, above ALL other beliefs and opinions, you will start to feel it working.

If you have doubts about this one key thought representing ultimate truth, allow me to provide the spiritual context I work with in which the statement makes perfect sense.

A common thread at the heart of all great spiritual traditions is that we are all immortal souls who are currently having a 'human' experience. The circumstances of this life experience were chosen by us to facilitate our soul's evolution. So any time you feel stress, you can see it as the universe prodding you to take an evolutionary step. That evolutionary step is to see the perfection in everything, if only for a moment at first. If you're game, these brief moments of clarity add up quickly to a more permanent step up.

An Example

Let's say for example you're stuck in traffic, and realize you are going to be late for a meeting. Maybe it's even your 'fault', because you left late or didn't check your GPS. If you're feeling stressed about it, realize it's because things are not how your mind thinks they should be. Your mind thinks you 'should' be at the meeting on time—to get some important information, perhaps, or because your reputation as a reliable person is at stake, and you will be judged by others at the meeting in a way that may impact your future success.

Now, you can continue to be stressed in that moment (and subsequently for the entire drive to the office), or you can take ALL that very reasonable blather of 'oughts' and 'shoulds', roll it up in a ball, and drop it into your faux-ashtray. You will be able to do this if you reach for presence, if you remind yourself that there is only the present moment, and in the present moment you can choose to experience stress, or choose to experience peace. If you choose to be fully present you accept the present moment exactly as it is, realize there is nothing you can DO in that moment to remedy the so-called problem, and take the evolutionary step of seeing everything as perfect in this so-called 'stressful' moment. There is no problem now—and you will deal with the 'problem' when the 'problem' arises. You are simply in a car driving. You will then start to feel relief, and gain confidence that if you maintain presence through your arrival to the office, your late entry into the meeting, and your conversations afterwards, the 'problem' will never arise and you will literally breeze through the whole experience. You will be 'ok' with whatever happens.

Natural Health: Expression vs Suppression

By Amandha D Vollmer

The body heals through expression. When we suppress symptoms, this prevents the body from properly healing. This knowledge can help you to understand when a disease process is working through you, how to manage it better, and to put the body back into homeostasis or balance.

Expression is natural. Expression is the dance of nature and how healing occurs. Symptoms are indicators of expression or release. Movement, breathwork, trauma release exercises, toning, etc., are specific methods of moving energy and healing. We must support expression, listen to the unwinding flow of symptoms, and aid them in their activity.

When we work with our natural rhythms and listen to what the body desires to do, we achieve health. When we force against it and try to stop its action, when we abuse its direction, we cause greater harm to the entire organism.

When you can reframe your bodily experience, you can gain a new sense of empowerment over your situation, remove yourself from fear and invite a holistic direction for resolution.

Your body is constantly having to remove wastes from both internal processes and external toxins (for example from foods or drugs) and rebuild tissues. There are both growth and repair processes as well as vital communication networks that rely on ample micro-nutrients and a clean terrain in order to function optimally. These communication systems include hormones but also ions (pH or electricity).

When any of these systems are compromised, important actions must be taken to repair them. If you are living a lifestyle where you are continually putting things inside or on your body that are counter-intuitive to nature, then your body must take action to ensure their proper removal. These mechanisms include the inflammatory response (like fever), or mucus formation (causing congestion) in order to remove the wastes.

When you have a cold or a flu, the symptoms you feel are the body's wisdom working to remove the wastes as efficiently as possible. Rather than taking a drug to stop that process, the wise way would be to listen to the body, support the process with natural remedies like herbs, magnesium, vitamin C, zinc, vitamin D and A, fast, drink pure water and rest. In this way, you are working with your body to correct the problem, allowing for release and proper completion of waste removal.

May you be inspired evermore toward health empowerment!

Five Things That Had To Happen Decades Before The Preplanned Attack

By Jason Christoff

1. Interest rates had to be low so people would max out their credit lines.
- Low interest rates also means no incentive to save. With no savings and maxed out credit, most people were lured into a trap, outside their conscious awareness. With no savings and maxed out credit lines, the average person would have no buffer from the demands of “take this experimental application or you’re fired.” The entire goal of the financial system over the last 30 years was to leave people weakened financially so they would have no way to side step the attack.
2. Basic education about human rights, freedoms and the law had to be absent from all the media, government education etc.
- This way when unelected health officials were purposely handed control of the entire government structure in 2020, most people were completely unaware of how this one manipulation destroyed all democratic and freedom based principles overnight. In 24 hours the free world reverted back 300 years to “taxation without representation” and this could only be accomplished without massive revolt if the citizens were never taught anything about freedom, law and the democratic process. Government policy is now in full control of medicine, which insists poison is the answer for every problem a society encounters. When additional problems erupt because of the original poisoning, additional poison is the solution tabled immediately. Real health is absent....but real health was always absent in conventional medicine. Now this “poison you back to health approach” to controlling humanity, is becoming official policy, while real health is demonized.
3. A directionless and soulless citizen must be constructed over decades where regular life accomplishments and feelings of unique value are absent.
- This way you can convince large tracts of the public that they are heroes, protectors and high achievers for complying with the destruction of their freedoms and following the corrupt rules that are designed to destroy everything they hold dear. In a directionless citizen, feelings of heroism and accomplishment would be absent, which sets up the perfect scenario for installing into that citizen these missing feelings, as that person is easily glorified, incentivized and celebrated as they burn their own society to the ground. Everyone wants to be a hero. Just tell a

- person that they’re amazing and a hero for doing everything they’re told and they walk willingly into the open grip of the tyrant.
4. A chemical assault had to be launched against the frontal lobe, which is the part of our brain, just behind our forehead.
- The frontal lobe is high functioning, high IQ, moral, ethical, loving, compassionate, independent and always thinks about the long term consequences of any action taken. Obviously if this part of the brain is active, it can instantly see the very obvious con job and economic destruction just around the corner, regarding the closing of businesses and mass unemployment... as governments double and even triple their debt loads over the next 2-4 years. Nothing will survive, nothing... which is the goal. The frontal lobe can figure out in milliseconds that weakening a citizen’s health with poison and their monetary resources (via mass unemployment and government debt), can only make the society worse off. There’s no upside to any of it but you would have to have your frontal lobe active to recognize these simple truths. The most efficient chemicals ever proven to shut down the frontal lobe are caffeine, alcohol, sugar, THC, narcotics, meds, fluoride, toxic chemicals etc. This is why for 70 years our human farmers gave us an unlimited supply of frontal lobe deactivating substances. Without frontal lobe activation, no human can think deeply and they certainly can’t think long term, not even a week into the future. Find a citizen who thinks that this won’t

- end with a complete destruction of our entire society within the next calendar year.....their frontal lobe can’t be on. Then check their coffee, alcohol and chemical intakes.
5. Men had to be feminized and demonized by the society..... to help separate families, to help produce men who were too weak to resist tyranny and to leave the female often single and unprotected, as the attack began.
- Partnerships make for stronger teams, in regards to resisting any take over attempt. Weak men of course weaken the partnership and men have been weakened chemically and physically for many decades. At the same time women have been constantly given the message that their men aren’t needed or even necessary and given men have been weakened for 3-4 decades.....it wasn’t a stretch for women to pack up and go at things alone. This of course was engineered purposely, socially conditioned into our societal fabric, so when the female was threatened with loss of employment or no access to child care, they would comply and take a knee to the corrupt and evil requests from a government gone mad. The men of course are the most compliant today of the two genders, which closes the circle, as the male protective force of the Universe was purposely conditioned out of most males.....to the point where most men today are simply obedient lap dogs to the ruling 1%.

I had a government official tell me yesterday, “either you violate your own rights and freedoms and the rights and freedoms of others, or I’ll have to come back and violate your rights and freedoms myself.” He thought that was completely logical and the best way he could table the insanity he was paid to come bring to my doorstep. In order for this sort of corruption and descent into evil to occur, these 5 factors (and many more) had to be in place for decades prior. What we’re seeing today isn’t an organic event, which came out of nowhere. Everything we see today has been scripted decades, if not hundreds of years in advance. The price of freedom is constant vigilance and we were tricked into partying, self gratifying and not being vigilant. It’s that simple. As we partied and goofed around, an evil control grid was built around us and that evil control grid involves rewarding people for doing evil to themselves and to others. God help us all at this point. At least try to stop poisoning yourself, as to turn your frontal lobe back on. At least try that.

Infiltrating The Protest Movement

By Sarah Jean Butler

I have never been to a protest in my life. Never. For any reason. I am afraid of crowds. I fear violence. I don’t trust mob mentality. Protesters are painted by MSM (and the average person) as ignorant, radical, racist, hateful, undesirable. Petty even. Dangerous certainly.

I decided to infiltrate the ranks and experience them for myself. I have spent the last month snuggled right up close with some of these folks. Working with them, talking to them, seeing them.

This is what I found: Passion and alignment. Diversity and tolerance. Love and kindness. Respect and empowerment. Acceptance and inclusion. Heart-centred action.

Like so many things, the pervasive perception does not match the reality I am experiencing. Are there firecrackers? Yes! This community is eclectic and traumatized like everyone else. Are they radical? Yes. They have been radicalized into freedom warriors who stand against extraction culture and systemic colonialism of every resource imaginable. Are they selfish? No. Their fierce defence of the human collective is a direct contradiction to the mainstream narrative.

I am stepping fully into this community who stand for life and liberty in peaceful non compliance and active resistance. When you are ready to stop defending broken systems and admit out loud what everybody knows regarding the desperate need for change...we are here for you, creating a safe, loving, vibrant place for you to land.

We are you. The people are us.
I love you.

P.S. I encourage you to experience us for yourself. (Just in case the media got it wrong.)

Pharma-Funded Media Spreads Fake News About Ivermectin

By Tea Lynn Moore

Is propaganda the new “journalism”? There’s no question that over the past year-and-a-half one of the most promising early COVID-19 treatments, Ivermectin, has gone through a wide assortment of attacks by the pharmaceutical-industrial complex. First, it was censored, primarily through shadow-banning (burying stories and videos on the topic further down in searches and feeds). Then, it was out-right banned on websites like YouTube (whose terms of service specifically prohibits videos that make “claims that Ivermectin and hydroxychloroquine are safe to use in the treatment of COVID-19”). Even a senate testimony video of a COVID ICU specialist (Dr. Kory) was removed for the crime of discussing his Ivermectin research. Nobel Prize winner Dr. Satoshi Omura, who developed Ivermectin, was also censored from YouTube recently. Ivermectin was also denied funding by the NIH and the WHO. On June 22, 2020, while Ivermectin was experiencing it’s first round of popularity, the World Health Organization issued a statement saying that Ivermectin should not be used to treat COVID-19, and that it would not be included in its international Solidarity Trials. A few days after that, the FDA issued its first of many warnings against the use of Ivermectin. And while the NIH has spent billions on vaccine development, and billions on researching expensive, patented drugs like Remdesivir (who received over $6.5 billion NIH dollars alone) over the course of the pandemic, not a single penny has been spent on Ivermectin research as a treatment for COVID-19. And now, there’s a new weapon against Ivermectin: pharma-funded lies and propaganda, all under the disguise of “journalism.” The first line of manipulation the corporate media used was collectively labeling this Nobel Prize-winning, safe and FDA-approved human drug that’s been saving covid patients, as a toxic “horse de-wormer.” This narrative began on August 20, 2021, when the Mississippi Department of Health was reported to have stated that “70% of the recent calls” to its state poison control were over people taking livestock versions of the human drug Ivermectin. The media went wild, with outlets such as The Hill, The New York Times, and The Washington Post reporting how “crazy anti-vaxxers” were putting their lives in danger by taking a horse med. The FDA even tweeted out a reaction to this story on August 21, “You are not a horse. You are not a cow. Seriously, y’all. Stop it,” along with an article warning of the “dangers” of Ivermectin, stating it can cause “even death.” For the record, Ivermectin as a treatment for COVID-19 has not resulted in any reported deaths in the US or worldwide. It turns out, the Mississippi Department of Health’s quote was actually “misinterpreted,” and a retraction was issued by the Associated Press on August 25. After several freedom-of-information-act requests, the actual number of calls in August 2021 to Mississippi Poison Control over Ivermectin was not 70%, it was in fact between 1 to 2% (and 70% of these 1%-2% of calls were for the veterinary formula). Nevertheless, the narrative of Ivermectin being a dangerous horse dewormer medication stuck, and on September 1st, 2021, the American Medical Association (AMA), in conjunction with the American Pharmacists Association, issued a joint statement calling for “an immediate end to the prescribing, dispensing, and use of Ivermectin to prevent or treat COVID-19 outside of a clinical trial,” being sure to mention that calls to poison-control centres over Ivermectin have increased dramatically. Ironically, this attempt to make doctors and pharmacists fearful of making the human medication available to the public, as it previously was, may result in more people feeling they have to resort to veterinary versions. Fortunately, podcast host Joe Rogan was diagnosed with COVID days before the AMA & APA’s joint statement and was prescribed Ivermectin by his doctor. When he announced to his followers on September 1 that he took Ivermectin for his COVID, The Washington Post, CNN, the Rolling Stone, and other mainstream media networks claimed he took a “horse de-wormer” despite the fact that he took the human form. (There’s also a canine aspirin, will CNN start calling aspirin “chewable dog tablets” as well?) And then, the unbelievable happened (as in: it’s such a fake story it’s hard to believe so many “journalists” believed it). A viral Rolling Stone article circulated the internet in early September, with the featured image showing a crowd of people bundled up in winter jackets lining up outside a supposed Oklahoma hospital. Yes, winter jackets on a summer Oklahoma day. Headlined “Gunshot Victims Left Waiting as Horse Dewormer Overdoses Overwhelm Oklahoma Hospitals, Doctor Says,” the story was built on a single interview that Oklahoma-based physician Dr. Jason McElyea gave to KFOR-TV. Dr. McElyea was quoted saying statements such as “The ERs are so backed up that gunshot victims were having hard times getting to facilities where they can get definitive care and be treated,” Dr. McElyea also claimed that the overdoses were causing an ambulance shortage as well, saying “all of their ambulances are stuck at the hospital waiting for a bed to open... if there’s no ambulance to take the call, there’s no ambulance to come to the call.” McElyea added some color to his story, claiming, “The scariest one that I’ve heard of and seen is people coming in with vision loss,” the doctor said. The problem is: the story was complete fiction. The hospital in question — Northeastern Health System - Sequoyah — issued a statement hours later revealing that McElyea “has not worked at our Sallisaw location in over 2 months,” and explained the hospital has not experienced a single case of Ivermectin overdose and “has not had to turn away any patients seeking emergency care.” Only one hospital Dr. McElyea is affiliated with claimed to have had any patients who have taken Ivermectin, but the hospital was not in “rural Southeastern Oklahoma” as Dr. McElyea described, and they said they were “not backed up.” The attacks on the safety of Ivermectin are unwarranted, as it has a 34 year long track record of being an extremely safe medication for humans. Before COVID-19, the NIH classified it as having a “very high safety profile.” More recently, an expert review of 500+ sources and papers in 2021 by world prominent toxicologist Dr. Jacques Descotes, MD, PhD, concluded that “hundreds of millions of human subjects have been treated with Ivermectin... the safety profile of Ivermectin has so far been excellent” No death or serious side effects were observed in this review, which included multiple overdoses (including a suicide-attempt overdose of 100 times the recommended therapeutic dose.) Remdesivir, the only FDA approved anti-viral drug for the treatment of COVID, causes “severe” side effects in 25% of patients, and another 23% exhibit evidence of liver damage on lab tests. Remdesivir was granted full FDA approval based on data that showed it only reduced the number of days in hospital (was not life saving) and that “positive effect” was only see in patients on “low-flow oxygen” (not patients on high flow oxygen, not patients on no oxygen, not patients on a ventilator, or ECMO) from relatively small trials with about 1000 participants. Ivermectin, on the other hand, has had 64 studies completed to date, with over 26,000 participants, (with 32 randomized controlled studies with 6,648 patients) with statistically significant improvements seen for mortality, ventilation, hospitalization, recovery, cases, and viral clearance. The probability that an ineffective treatment generated results as positive as the 64 studies is estimated to be 1 in 222 billion. Visit ivmmeta.com for Ivermectin study results. Ivermectin is used as a COVID treatment in over 20 countries worldwide, including India. India’s most populated state, Uttar Pradesh, says early use of Ivermectin helped to keep positivity rate and death rate low. It was the first Indian state to have introduced a large-scale “prophylactic and therapeutic” use of Ivermectin in 2020. The state has a population of 240 million and a vaccination rate of only 12% of the eligible population, yet their daily average number of new cases is 16 and their daily death rate is 0. Ivermectin is saving lives from COVID and it’s a tragedy that it’s not saving more. It’s clear that here in North America, drug companies are driving the COVID-19 responses — responses that have endangered, rather than optimized public health — and mainstream media have been accomplices in spreading their propaganda, leading the public astray, fostering fear based on lies. We simply cannot allow drug companies —who have a long, strong track record of prioritizing corporate profit over people’s health — to continue to control entire nations by way of carefully orchestrated and organized centralized propaganda disguised as journalism. It’s time for more people-funded news. It’s time for the truth. And it’s time for generic, potentially life-saving medications like Ivermectin to get the funding and coverage it deserves. Always agreeing with you, is not love. Love is truth. Love is asking hard questions. Love is an unwavering belief in your potential. Love is knowing that your trauma defines nothing about what is possible for you in this life. Love is seeing your power even when you can’t. Love is being able to say NO, so that when you say YES it actually means something. Love is choosing honesty over comfort. Love is showing you that the chains you’ve been clinging to aren’t actually there. Love is so many things, but it definitely is not found in the sadistic slogans of the government, or Big Pharma, or virtue-signalling waxers. I love deeply... myself, you, children, my grandmothers, Earth, Life. This is exactly why I stand so firmly in my NO. The intensity of my dissent is not made up of a deficiency of love, or care, or kindness, or thoughtfulness. Quite the opposite. Do not try and gaslight me to think otherwise. Repeat the mantras all you want, it won’t work. Originally published at: instagram.com/freyakellet

Stop your gaslighting games

By Freya Kellet

Compliance does NOT equal care. My love for humanity, for elders, for children, is NOT measured by the enthusiasm with which I submit my body to a medical experiment. Loving you doesn’t mean that I’m responsible for your health, your feelings, your fear, your decisions, your life. Loving you doesn’t mean that I owe you anything, especially not the violation of my one body, my self respect, my truth. Lying to myself, or to you, is not love. Walking on eggshells around you to avoid offending, or triggering, or “hurting” you, is not love. Carefully erecting scaffolding around your trauma, or volunteering to become the scaffolding myself, is not love. Accepting your invitations to feel fear or anxiety or overwhelm, is not love. Playing along with your stories of brokenness, praising and affirming them, acting out my role in the narrative (again and again), is not love.

Four-Year-Olds In Scotland Allowed To Change Gender Without Parental Consent

The Scottish government has recently issued a detailed document under new LGBT inclusivity guidelines. The 70-page document calls on teachers to support school kids as young as four in exploring a different gender without parental consent. Under the guidelines a child can change their pronouns and name within the classroom setting.

According to the government document, “Primary schools need to be able to meet the needs of these young people to ensure they have a safe, inclusive and respectful environment in which to learn”. The guidance states that children can choose which toilets and changing rooms they use, based on their chosen gender identity. Teachers are now encouraged to follow the guidance by demonstrating empathy and trust to a child who is confused about their gender.

The guidelines also includes a recommended reading list for primary schools aimed at highlighting trans inclusivity and gender identity as well as posters to be put up in classrooms challenging gender stereotypes.

Scottish education secretary Shirley-Anne Somerville responded to concerns regarding the guidelines. She stated, “This guidance outlines how schools can support transgender young people while ensuring that the rights of all pupils are fully respected and provides schools with practical suggestions. The guidance is not prescriptive and does not promote transitioning”.

Thankfully, common sense and good parenting still exists in Scotland regarding the guidelines. Co-director of the For Women Scotland campaign group Marion Calder said, “The bottom line is that this is a dangerous ideology that the Scottish government is pushing. It shows a failure in safeguarding and a removal of parental rights. It used to be commonly understood that children should be able to play and experiment with gender roles with clothing, their likes, and dislikes. Those children are now being encouraged on to a medical pathway, potentially for the rest of their lives. We should not be teaching children, and especially primary school children, that you can change sex, because you cannot change sex”.

Under the leadership of wannabe Braveheart Nicola Sturgeon, the Scottish National Party (SNP) have been hellbent on aiming to be the one of the most ‘progressive’ and ‘liberal’ countries in Europe with a strong focus on identity politics and virtue signalling. It also comes as no surprise that Scotland has had a very strict tyrannical approach in managing the covid situation.

‘Scotland the Brave’ may soon be replaced with ‘Scotland the Woke’.

Rescue Dogs Murdered in Australia Due To Lockdown Measures

Fifteen rescue dogs including puppies have been brutally killed in New South Wales (NSW) because of lockdown restrictions. Bourke Shire Council, a rural region in NSW euthanised the dogs over fears that people travelling across the state to the rescue shelter during a stay-at-home order may potentially spread covid.

In a cowardly statement, Bourke Shire Council have shamefully tried to justify their murderous actions under the guise of health and safety. They reported, “The town is in a tenuous situation at the moment with Covid. Positive cases are on the increase. Council is being very careful with people entering Bourke. The majority of council staff have been stood down to avoid the virus spreading further in the community”.

Many people are questioning the rationale provided by Bourke Shire Council. Emma Hurst, an Australian politician in NSW who represents the Animal Justice Party reacted to the situation on her Facebook page by stating, “Council staff say the dogs were killed because they could no longer care for them during the Covid-19 outbreak. It seems to me that no genuine attempt was made to get the dogs into foster homes or to rescue groups. I’ve heard there were at least two groups who were open to taking the animals in. These lives could have been saved”. The animal rights activist also believes the council may have breached the ‘Companion Animals Act 1998’.

RSPCA NSW are currently making enquiries and investigations into the deaths of the fifteen canines. In a statement on their website, they reported, “RSPCA NSW believes that physically healthy and behaviourally sound companion animals that are suitable for adoption should not be euthanized”.

In what can only be described as a barbaric and gruesome act, Australia is once again in the public focus for the wrong reasons. Australia has truly fallen.

Romanians Rejecting Vaccines In Huge Numbers

Health officials in Romania have reported closing 117 vaccination centres due to a rapid declining interest in people wishing to get the experimental jab in recent months. Romania currently has one of the lowest uptakes for the vaccine in Europe. According to data from the European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control, only a quarter of the adult population in Romania have been fully vaccinated.

During the initial rollout of the vaccine, the Romanian health authorities had an ambitious goal of inoculating 10 million people by the end of September 2021. Due to the wise rejection and avoidance of the covid vaccine across the country by many Romanians, the chief vaccination coordinator Valeriu Gheorgita reported the closing of many vaccination centres and the reduction of vaccine stocks.

The lack of interest in the vaccines has resulted in the Romanian government selling their vaccine doses to other countries. The Irish and Danish governments have made deals with their Romanian counterparts in purchasing nearly one million vaccines in recent months.

In a desperate measure to increase vaccine compliance, the Romanian government has also reached out to church leaders to promote the vaccine. In August, Deputy Prime Minister Dan Barna met with members of the clergy to encourage vaccine promotion. After the meeting, he reported, “There’s a component of society that pays much attention to the messages of the church and that’s why I wish for the church to be active in this campaign to promote our health”.

The former communist country knows full well the dangerous impact that state control and totalitarianism can have on their country. It is refreshing to see at least one European country non-complying and standing up for themselves.

Compensation For Covid Vaccine Victims In Singapore

The government in Singapore is busy paying compensation to people who have had serious adverse reactions from covid vaccines. A response to the worrying situation has been rolled out called the Vaccine Injury Financial Assistance Programme (VIFAP) to assist claims and concerns.

VIFAP aims to provide a one-off payment for individuals who have suffered serious side effects as a direct result from the covid vaccine in Singapore. Since the rollout of the programme, a total of 782,000 Singapore dollars (735,000 US dollars) has been paid to people who have experienced life-threatening injuries from the experimental jabs. According to the Health Sciences Authority in Singapore, almost “10,000 adverse effects” have been reported and over 400 of them listed as “serious”.

Under the scheme, side effects from covid vaccines are classified into different categories and pay-outs are based on the severity and treatment received because of the adverse reactions. For example, if someone needed admission to a High Dependency Ward or Intensive Care Unit (ICU) and has since recovered, they may be eligible for a payment of $10,000.

The Ministry of Health in Singapore have confirmed that they have paid compensation to a 16-year-old boy after he suffered a heart attack while exercising a week after receiving his covid vaccine. Thankfully, the teenage boy is undergoing rehabilitation after his health scare.

Other Asian countries such as South Korea, Thailand and Malaysia are also paying out compensation to injured people from the covid vaccines.

Absurdity Observer

A List Of Some Of The Most Absurd Things That Have Happened In Recent Weeks

- 3 New Zealand men were arrested and are facing jail time for “smuggling large amounts of KFC” over the border into Auckland. For the past month, Auckland has been in a strict level-4 lockdown that does not allow restaurants to open or residents to order take-away food. A week prior, a 20-year-old man was also charged by police after posting a social media video of him crossing the border in search of McDonald’s. The country has one of the highest per-capita distributions of KFC and McDonalds in the world. The New Zealand government is currently in the works of making “partnerships” with fast food restaurants (including KFC) to have them offer their customers a COVID-19 vaccine when they buy their meals... Would you like Pfizer with that?
- Just 18-months before the first COVID-19 case appeared, Wuhan scientists planned to release coronavirus particles into cave bats, leaked document says. The leaked 2018 DARPA document titled “Project DEFUSE” reveals an EcoHealth Alliance proposal on bat research that included the introduction of “human-specific cleavage sites” (i.e. a type of gain-of-function research that genetically enhances a coronavirus to infect humans more easily). The proposal was ultimately rejected by DARPA (due to the “potential risks of gain-of-function research”) and accepted by the NIH (due to a 2018 Moderna coronavirus vaccine deal that required full-scale research into coronaviruses). Dr. Fauci is going to have a tough time denying the NIH funded gain-of-function now.
- A new study suggests that 48% of those “hospitalized with COVID-19” have mild or asymptomatic cases. The study (titled The COVID-19 Hospitalization Metric in the Pre- and Post-vaccination Eras as a Measure of Pandemic Severity: A Retrospective, Nationwide Cohort Study) found that from mid-January 2021 through the end of June 2021, the proportion of patients with mild or asymptomatic disease was 48%. In other words, the study suggests that roughly half of all the hospitalized patients showing up on COVID-data dashboards in 2021 may have been admitted for another reason entirely, or were merely admitted to receive in-hospital therapeutics (like IV Remdesivir) in hopes of preventing symptoms.
- UK Medicine and Healthcare product Regulatory Agency (MHRA) confirms in a Freedom of Information request that there have been four times as many deaths reported to be due to the Covid-19 vaccines in 8 months than deaths reported due to all other vaccines combined in 20 years.
- At least two Calgary women were denied access to medical facilities this week because they were unvaccinated against COVID-19. The clinics in question claim they did not technically deny patients healthcare since “virtual appointments” are an option. The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta said in a statement: “Physicians have the right to protect their patients and staff, and other measures may be considered by the physician, such as virtual care, postponing non-urgent visits.”
- Senior doctors and a marketing director in North Carolina were caught discussing how to artificial- ly inflate COVID-19 numbers in a now leaked zoom meeting. “Maybe we need to be completely a little bit more scary to the public... how do we include those post-covid patients in the numbers.... we can talk offline as to how we’ll run that up ... If you don’t get vaccinated, you know you’re going to die. Let’s just be really blunt to these people.”

- America is seeing a nation-wide “hospital bed shortage” due to the vaccine mandates exacerbating the massive workforce shortage issues plaguing the hospital industry, according to multiple Hospital Associations. A New York hospital even said they will be “pausing the delivery of babies” (somehow?) “because of a spate of resignations by maternity unit workers who are objecting to COVID-19 vaccination mandates.”
- Study titled Waning immunity of the BNT162b2 vaccine: a nationwide study from Israel, finds that Pfizer vaccine immunity strongly wanes in all age groups after six months. Interestingly, as Dr. Peter Doshi described in the BMJ, the data Pfizer presented to receive full FDA approval did not include efficacy beyond 6 months (and only 7% studied got close to 6 months.) 6 months is the period Israel says vaccine efficacy drops to just 39%.
- Israeli Government data shows natural immunity to be far superior (as in both longer lasting and stronger protection) at preventing reinfections when compared to the 2-dose Pfizer vaccine. The study, titled Comparing SARS-CoV-2 natural immunity to vaccine-induced immunity: reinfections verses breakthrough infections, found that 6 month+ vaccinated individuals who never tested positive for SARS-CoV-2 had a 13.06-fold increased risk of “breakthrough infections” with the delta variant compared to those previously infected.
- With Israel being one of the first and most vaccinated countries in the world (vaccinated with exclusively the Pfizer vaccine, 80% of eligible Israelis are fully vaccinated, with most having been vaccinated over 6 months ago), it is also now in 2nd place for the most daily infections per capita in the world, according to the New York Times COVID-19 tracker. Even the “anti-lockdown country” Sweden, along with other European nations, have decided to bar entry to Israeli nationals. With Israel already having approved the 3rd booster shot, Israel’s Chief COVID-19 Officer Salman Zarka said, “Given that the virus is here and will continue to be here, we also need to prepare for a fourth injection.”
- People in Australia are now being forced to download a new quarantine app that combines facial recognition with geolocation. Their state will text them at random times, and thereafter they will have 15 minutes to take a picture of their face in the location where they are supposed to be. Non-compliance may land you in the newly built dystopian detainment centre-like quarantine camps that were recently launched in Australia.

- 2 senior regulars responsible for approving vaccines at the FDA (Marian Gruber, Phil Crouse) have resigned in frustration over the booster plan because the shots lack evidence, as they explained in a letter to The Lancet. A few months prior, 3 other FDA advisors resigned over the agency’s approval of the $56,000 Alzheimer’s infusion drug Aduhelm.
- The FDA authorizes Pfizer booster shots for older (65+) and at-risk Americans, despite the booster’s safety only being evaluated in 306 participants under age 55, and only 12 participants 65 years of age and older who were followed for an average of two months.
- 1 in 1,000 mRNA shots result in heart inflammation according to a retrospective pre-print study by the University of Ottawa Heart Institute. Pfizer and Moderna shots were found to have resulted in myocarditis/pericarditis (inflammation of the heart) within one month of the shot, although symptom onset typically occurred within 1.5 days of second shot, with the vast majority occurring in young men. Another study, titled SARS-CoV-2 mRNA Vaccination-Associated Myocarditis in Children ages 12-17: A Stratified National Analysis, finds the risk of boys aged 12-15 developing heart inflammation is up to 6.1 times higher than their risk of being hospitalized while testing positive for COVID.
- After “black substances” were found floating around vaccine vials by healthcare workers, Japan suspended use of 2.6 million doses of Moderna due to a stainless-steel contamination. More than half a million contaminated doses had already been administered and 3 young men have died after being injected with a contaminated vial.

“We have to stop thinking about getting an exemption to having our constitutional rights violated. We have the constitutional right to refuse a vaccine.

Those trying to coerce and mandate the vaccine are violating that common law, statutory, and constitutional right. Why seek an 'exemption' FROM THE VIOLATORS? Makes no sense.”
