

Our Food Supply is Under Attack

By Michelle Zeh

Are you feeling the painful pinch of inflation as your grocery bills soar relative to how many bags you carry out of the store? Yeah, me too. I haven't seen too many empty shelves in my neck of the woods yet, though there are definitely more than I've ever seen before. My jaw drops regularly at the prices as I notice the increases monthly and sometimes weekly. During a presser on March 31, Justin Trudeau said "We've seen... disruptions of supply chains around the world, which is resulting in higher prices for consumers and democracies, like ours, and resulting in significant shortages and projected shortages of food, of energy in places around the world. This is going to be a difficult time because of the war, because of the recovery from the pandemic," US President Joe Biden mumbled something similar the week before. So, whether you believe the war between Russia and Ukraine which only started in late February is one of two stated contributing factors for price hikes on groceries, we've been told to expect food shortages by the powers that be. And what about the fires?

In recent months, the internet has been abuzz with stories of numerous fires and explosions at food processing plants, animal feed processing plants, fertilizer production facilities, food distribution hubs, dairy, egg, poultry and cattle farms, and meat packers across the US, with a couple of notable incidents in Canada, and totaling more than 35 such incidents just since January of this year.

Though fact checkers and government funded mainstream media talking heads are out in full force to debunk any claims that this could be a manufactured crisis, there are just too many incidents for the critical thinkers to ignore. A quick internet search will yield many independent media stories about the fires, alongside those fact checks of course. Even the FBI put out a warning in April about increased cyber attack threats on agricultural institutions. In their press release, they specifically noted ransomware attacks in 2021 and early 2022 could disrupt the planting season by affecting the supply of seeds and fertilizer: "A significant disruption of grain production could impact the entire food chain since grain is not only consumed by humans but also used for animal feed. In addition, a significant disruption of grain and corn production could impact commodities trading and stocks."

What amounts to a manufactured health crisis in my opinion, that's been pushed onto us for the last 2+ years has most certainly contributed to a lack of over-all housekeeping and equipment maintenance through lockdowns, labour shortages and lack of parts, but the number of fires does seem extreme to me. Could this be a deliberate attempt to sabotage our food supply? I've laid out a timeline for you below and further details can be obtained through your search engine.

2021

- Jan 12, Fayetteville, IL - Deli Star meat packers
- Apr 11, Robards, KY- Tyson poultry processor
- Jul 26, Memphis, TN, - Kellogg cereal plant
- Aug 2, Handel, AL - Tyson animal feed plant
- Aug 24, Comcast, GA - Patak meat products
- Sep 13, Grand Island NE, - JBS beef processing plant.
- Oct 13 - Caldwell ID - Darigold butter production plant

- Feb 28, Sunnyside WA - Nutrien Ag Solutions Fertilizer Plant
- Mar 14, Longswamp Twp PA - Unnamed Dairy farm
- Mar 17, Jonesboro AK, Nestle prepared foods.
- Mar 18, Plainfield, IN - Walmart Distribution Centre including food.

- Mar 23, Piscataway NJ - Pepsi Food Processing Plant
- March 23, Sherbrooke QC - Center de Valorisation de l'Ailment de l'Estrie
- Mar 24, Belfast ME - Penobscot McCrum Potato Processing plant.
- Mar 29, Maricopa AZ - Maricopa Food Pantry
- Mar 31, San Juan TX - Rio Fresh Onion Packing Facility
- Apr 11, Conway NH - East Conway Beef and Pork
- Apr 13, Salinas CA - Taylor Farms Food Processing
- Apr 13, Heyburn ID - Gem State Potato & Food Processing Plant
- Apr 18, Dufur OR - Azure Standard - Largest US Organic Food Distributor
- Apr 20, Leoti KS - Nutrient Ag Solutions fertilizer plant.
- Apr 21, Covington, GA - General Mills Cereal plant
- Apr 24, Cedar Rapids IA - General Mills Manufacturing Site
- Apr 25, Suffolk VA - Hormel Foods
- Apr 28, Kalona IA - Agriway Partners

- Apr 30, Chesapeake WV - Perdue Farms plant
- May 1, Fresno CA - Saladino's Food Processing Plant
- May 7, Green Bay WI - JBS Meat Packing Plant
- May 29, Howard Lake, MN - Forsman Farms
- May 31, Wadena, MN - Minnestoa Valley Irrigation (equipment used in farming)
- June 8, Arcola LA - Purina Feed Mill
- Jun 13, Belmont WI - Festive Foods
- Jul 13, East Lubbock TX - Purina Feed Mill

An article from the US based National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) Journal, even though they admittedly don't keep data specific to fires that occur in food processing plants, claims there's nothing to see here. Birgitte Messerschmidt, the NFPA Research Director says 2019 was a particularly bad year for industrial fires. There were over 5,300 — nearly 15 a day — but I can only find 10 such incidents relating to food processing facilities for that year. (Source <https://archive.4plebs.org/pol/thread/376412951/#376>) Not even 7 full months into 2022 and there have already been 37 incidents at food processing plants in the US alone.

Also, it's the NFPA article that the fact checkers keep referencing so I haven't got much faith in those fact checkers.

Something else to consider is the cap of fertilizer shipments announced by Union Pacific Railway in April. Majority shares totaling 15.58% of UPR are held by none other than Vanguard Group and Blackrock Inc. Alongside the 2 fertilizer plant fires, a backlog of shipments over the last 2+ years and now the caps, the result is farmers are receiving less fertilizer, which also has to be contributing to lower yield and higher prices.

Fertilizer however, isn't in the only product affected
See, 'Ready' p.2

- Nov 29, Scott Twp PA, Maid Rite Steak Co.
- Dec 12, San Antonio, TX - West Side food processing plant.
- Dec 13, Collins MS - Sanderson Animal Feed processing
- Moving on to 2022, you'll notice the uptick in frequency of occurrences.
- Jan 2, Momence IL - Van Drunen Farms Tuthill plant
- Jan 7, Hamilton, ON - Unnamed poultry processing plant
- Jan 8, Fresno CA - Raw Far Creamery

"On a positive note,
if you enjoy dining on insects,
London, Ontario
is now home to Aspire Food Group's cricket processing facility."

- Jan 14, Lecompte LA - Cargill-Nutrena feed mill.
- Jan 20, Warden WA - Washington Potato Co.
- Jan 31, Winston Salem NC - Wiston Weaver Fertilizer
- Feb 3, Stowe VT - Percy Dairy Farm
- Feb 3, Mauston WI, Wisconsin River Meats
- Feb 4, Live Oak CA - Diamond Walnut Growers
- Feb 15, El Paso TX, Bonnza Meat Co.
- Feb 16, Claypool, IN - Louis Dreyfus Co. soybean processing and biodiesel plant.
- Feb 18, Panton VT - Bess View Dairy Farm
- Feb 22, Hermiston OR - Shearer's Foods Potato Plant
- Feb 28, Lincoln NB - Shadow Brook Farm & Dutch Girl Creamery

DRUTHERS is written, funded, promoted & distributed freely by concerned Canadians like you.
Have your Druthers mailed right to your door each month at: www.druthers.net/subscribe

telegram.me/druthers | facebook.com/druthers.net | instagram.com/druthersnews
youtube.com/druthers | bitchute.com/druthers

On COVID vaccines:

Why They Cannot Work, And Irrefutable Evidence Of Their Causative Role In Deaths After Vaccination

By Sucharit Bhakdi, MD and Arne Burkhardt, MD
| doctors4covidethics.org

The authors

Dr. Bhakdi has spent his life practicing, teaching and researching medical microbiology and infectious diseases. He chaired the Institute of Medical Microbiology and Hygiene at the Johannes Gutenberg University of Mainz, Germany, from 1990 until his retirement in 2012. He has published over 300 research articles in the fields of immunology, bacteriology, virology and parasitology, and served from 1990 to 2012 as Editor-in-Chief of Medical Microbiology and Immunology, one of the first scientific journals of this field that was founded by Robert Koch in 1887.

Dr. Arne Burkhardt is a pathologist who has taught at the Universities of Hamburg, Berne and Tübingen. He was invited for visiting professorships/study visits in Japan (Nihon University), the United States (Brookhaven National Institute), Korea, Sweden, Malaysia and Turkey. He headed the Institute of Pathology in Reutlingen for 18 years. Subsequently, he worked as an independent practicing pathologist with consulting contracts with laboratories in the US. Burkhardt has published more than 150 scientific articles in German and international scientific journals as well as contributions to handbooks in German, English and Japanese. Over many years he has audited and certified institutes of pathology in Germany.

The evidence

We herewith present scientific evidence that calls for an immediate stop of the use of gene-based COVID-19 vaccines. We first lay out why the agents cannot protect against viral infection. While no positive effects can be expected, we show that the vaccines can trigger self-destructive processes that lead to debilitating illness and death.

Sucharit Bhakdi, MD (left) and Arne Burkhardt, MD (right) claim vaccines against Covid are not only ineffective but may be deadly.

Ready to Eat the Bugs?

Continued from p.1
by the caps.

Diesel exhaust fluid (DEF), required by newer diesel engines is also among the delivery caps. As if diesel users haven't been feeling the pinch already with the soaring fuel prices, it's now more difficult for them to get DEF. It makes operating the newer diesel vehicles impossible if the DEF tank is empty, unless owners disable the emission cutting component of their exhaust systems. I've also read about a diesel oil additive shortage. According to Mike Adams of Natural News, Chevron (US) and Lubrizol (Italy) are the sole producers of the additives which make up to 25% of engine oil and they haven't been producing 'for a while now', with no plans to start again until some time in 2023, citing maintenance issues. Most trucks, trains, ships, farm and industrial equipment use diesel fuel and require 10W40 or 15W40 oil to lubricate their engines, so I don't know about you, but I can see where this is headed. I wonder if we can go back to using canola oil instead?

Remind me again why both the Biden and Trudeau governments shut down the Keystone XL Pipeline? Oh right, so we can push electric everything onto humanity, while using gas and oil to operate the mining equipment while destroying large swathes of the environment to find that precious lithium and cobalt for those non recyclable batteries. Insanity!

Back to the potentially manufactured food crisis, it warrants the planting of another seed for the critical thinkers. If you've paid a modicum of attention to government funded legacy media, you'll be aware that tens of millions of chickens, turkeys and ducks have been culled in the US, Canada and across the world to combat the spread of the alleged avian influenza outbreak. According to a United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Q&A publication dated April 2015, people can't catch avian flu from eating a supposedly infected chicken or egg as long as the product is cooked to the standard safe food handling internal temperature of 165° F. So why are these animals being destroyed when they could be cooked and then frozen for human or pet consumption? Are the birds actually exhibiting symptoms? I ask because the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) is proactively attending private and commercial farms to test their fowl.

According to a USDA fact sheet also from April 2015, APHIS is using rapid tests similar to the COVID-19 rapid tests to diagnose and subsequently determine the fate of these birds, healthy or not. I have personally tested and witnessed the COVID-19 rapid tests from two different manufacturers show positive results from swabs taken from kiwi fruit from three different growers and also from tap water. Asymptomatic, meaning HEALTHY people have been testing positive for something that also affects kiwis and tap water in my first-hand experience. It certainly makes me question the accuracy and validity of these rapid tests. What are they detecting exactly? And, given the hype over the alleged and never proven asymptomatic spread of COVID-19, is APHIS looking for any other sources such as contaminated water, feed or perhaps pesticides that could be sparking these alleged illnesses? I have my doubts.

On the method of destruction of these birds, it's noteworthy to mention the cruelty in at least one instance at Rembrandt Foods in Iowa (owned by billionaire Glen Taylor) that occurred during March and April. One single 'confirmed' case of avian flu led to the inhumane destruction of 5.3 million HEALTHY egg-laying chickens. Tom Cullen of the Iowa newspaper The Storm Lake Times revealed the birds were culled using a system called ventilation shut down (VSD+) in which air is closed off to the barns and heat pumped in until the temperature rises above 104° F, thus suffocating and practically roasting the animals to death. After assisting with this reprehensible deed, 200+ workers were subsequently fired. I can't imagine how they're doing mentally.

Incidentally, on July 15, Canada imposed a ban on the import of live birds, raw chicken and eggs from as many as 21 states and that number will likely grow. I don't know the statistics on how much poultry Canada imports from the US specifically, but I've seen many packages in the cooler section of larger grocery store chains with the USDA stamp on them. I guess we're going to be seeing less of those.

In other related news, on June 8th the California State Water Resources Control Board announced that water diverted from rivers and streams would no longer be available to ~4500 water rights holders between Fresno County and the Oregon border, forcing them to turn to wells, stored water or groundwater if they have it. There were cutbacks last year too, however they didn't happen until August. Less or no water means less or no crops and with California being the number one supplier of produce to the US, and Canada importing much of its produce from the US, this can't be a good thing. (Source <https://calmatters.org/environment/2022/06/california-delta-water-cutbacks/>)

On a positive note, if you enjoy dining on insects, London, Ontario is now home to Aspire Food Group's cricket processing facility. According to Mohammed Ashour, co-founder of Aspire, "Crickets have this incredible ability to convert what they eat into protein biomass." He further claims that they can produce protein much more efficiently and with a fraction of the amount of food, water and land needed by other protein sources." Their target harvest rate is 13 million kilograms or 9 metric tons annually. In a June 27 news release, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada revealed that they are investing as much as $8.5 million into Aspire's facility, stating "Alternative sources of protein such as insects provide an opportunity for Canada's agriculture and agri-food sector to more sustainably meet global demand for food. Aspire's goal to tackle global food scarcity led to its focus on edible insect protein, which can provide high volumes of nutritious food with a low environmental footprint." Canada's Actually Foods already sells three flavours of their cricket protein puffs to Canadian consumers but you'd need to read the label to know and, buyer beware, if you have a shellfish allergy, you will likely have a cricket protein allergy as well.

So, while food related manufacturing facilities continue to burn, regardless of the cause, poultry continues to be culled at an alarming rate, water is cut off for California farmers, fertilizer and diesel exhaust fluid shipments are capped, and grocery prices skyrocket, just remember, there's a cheaper, creepy crawly alternative coming to a grocery store near you if it isn't already there. Bon appétit!

Why the vaccines cannot protect against infection

A fundamental mistake underlying the development of the COVID-19 vaccines was to neglect the functional distinction between the two major categories of antibodies which the body produces in order to protect itself from pathogenic microbes.

The first category (secretory IgA) is produced by immune cells (lymphocytes) which are located directly underneath the mucous membranes that line the respiratory and intestinal tract. The antibodies produced by these lymphocytes are secreted through and to the surface of the mucous membranes. These antibodies are thus on site to meet air-borne viruses, and they may be able to prevent viral binding and infection of the cells.

The second category of antibodies (IgG and circulating IgA) occur in the bloodstream. These antibodies protect the internal organs of the body from infectious agents that try to spread via the bloodstream.

Vaccines that are injected into the muscle – i.e., the interior of the body – will only induce IgG and circulating IgA, not secretory IgA. Such antibodies cannot and will not effectively protect the mucous membranes from infection by SARS-CoV-2. Thus, the currently observed "breakthrough infections" among vaccinated individuals merely confirm the fundamental design flaws of the vaccines. Measurements of antibodies in the blood can never yield any information on the true status of immunity against infection of the respiratory tract.

The inability of vaccine-induced antibodies to prevent coronavirus infections has been reported in recent scientific publications.

The vaccines can trigger self-destruction

A natural infection with SARS-CoV-2 (coronavirus) will in most individuals remain localized to the respiratory tract. In contrast, the vaccines cause cells deep inside our body to express the viral spike protein, which they were never meant to do by nature. Any cell which expresses this foreign antigen will come under attack by the immune system, which will involve both IgG antibodies and cytotoxic T-lymphocytes. This may occur in any organ. We are seeing now that the heart is affected in many young people, leading to myocarditis or even sudden cardiac arrest and death. How and why such tragedies might causally be linked to vaccination has remained a matter of conjecture because scientific evidence has been lacking. This situation has now been rectified.

Histopathologic studies: the patients

Histopathologic analyses have been performed on the organs of 15 persons who died after vaccination. The age, gender, vaccination record, and time of death after injection of each patient are listed in the table on the next page. The following points are of utmost importance:

- Prior to death, only 4 of the 15 patients had been treated in the ICU for more than 2 days. The majority were never hospitalized and died at home (5), on the street (1), at work (1), in the car (1), or in home-care facilities (1). Therefore, in most cases, therapeutic intervention is unlikely to have significantly influenced the post-mortem findings.
- Not a single death was brought into any possible association with the vaccination by the coroner or the public prosecutor; this association was only established by our autopsy findings.

Food Shortages In Six Months – The Globalists Are Telling Us What Happens Next

By Brandon Smith | alt-market.us

In mid 2007, the Bank for International Settlements (BIS) (the central bank of central banks) released a statement predicting an impending “Great Depression” caused by a credit market implosion. That same year the International Monetary Fund (IMF) also published warnings of “subprime woes” leading to wider economic strife. I started writing alternative economic analysis only a year earlier in 2006 and I immediately thought it was strange that these massive globalist institutions with far-reaching influence on the financial world were suddenly starting to sound a lot like those of us in the liberty movement.

This was 16 years ago, so many people reading this might not even remember, but in 2007 the alternative media had already been warning about an impending deflationary crash in US markets and housing for some time. And, not surprisingly, the mainstream media was always there to deny all of our concerns as “doom-mongering” and “conspiracy theory.” Less than a year later, the first companies awash in derivatives began to announce they were on the verge of bankruptcy and everything tanked.

The media response? They made two very bizarre claims simultaneously: “No one could have seen it coming” and “We saw this coming a mile away.” Mainstream journalists scrambled to position themselves as the soothsayers of the day as if they said all along that the crash was imminent, yet, there were only a handful of people who actually did call it and none of them were in the MSM. Also ignored was the fact that the BIS and IMF had published their own “predictions” well before the crash; the media pretended as if they did not exist.

In the alternative media we watch the statements and open admissions of the globalists VERY carefully because they are not in the business of threat analysis; rather, they are in the business of threat synthesis. That is to say, if something goes very wrong in the world economically, central bankers and money elites with aspirations of a single centralized economic authority for the world are ALWAYS found to have a hand in that disaster. For some reason, they like to tell us what they are about to do before they do it. The idea that globalists artificially create economic collapse events will of course be criticized as “conspiracy theory,” but it is a FACT.

The Great Reset agenda proposed by WEF head Klaus Schwab is just one example of the many discussions hidden in plain sight by globalists concerning their plans to use economic and social decline as an “opportunity” to quickly establish a new one world system based on socialism and technocracy.

The primary problem with discerning what the globalists are planning is not in uncovering secret agendas — They tend to openly discuss their agendas if you know where to look. No, the problem is in separating the admissions from the disinformation, the lies from the truth. This requires matching up globalist white papers and statements to the facts and evidence at hand in the real world.

Photo credit: F Armstrong Photography / Shutterstock.com

Let’s look specifically at the food shortage problem in detail...

Food Shortages In Six Months

A week ago there was a torrent of press releases from global institutions all mentioning the exact same concern: Food shortages within the next 3 to 6 months. These statements line up very closely with my own estimates, as I have been warning regularly about impending dangers of inflation leading to food rationing and supply chain disruptions.

mask indoors around others. 17% say sometimes, leaving just 29% who wear a mask indoors “all the time” or “most of the time.”

Support for travel restrictions is even lower, as Canadians move on

With the Liberals still mulling over continued travel restrictions, just 14% of Canadians want travel restrictions brought back.

Clearly, Canadians are moving on from the pandemic mindset.

People recognize that there is still risk, but that risk must be managed on the individual level, with each of us choosing the level of risk we are comfortable with. The government shouldn’t be making those decisions.

Unfortunately, the authoritarian Trudeau Liberals remain addicted to the power that pandemic fear enabled them to grab, and are unwilling to give it up.

They continue to do everything they can to perpetuate the fear-based mindset, and continually muse about reimposing draconian restrictions in the supposed ‘next wave.’

Further, the Liberals have reimposed random testing at airports, and previous vaccine mandates have contributed to a large-scale loss of staff that has caused extensive travel chaos.

As if that’s not enough, the Liberals continue to push the ArriveCan app, and are making it permanent, the clearest example yet of how corrupt authoritarians will use a temporary crisis to push for a long-term assault on our rights and freedoms.

With Canadians moving on while the Liberals refuse to do so, the only thing that will get Canada fully back to normal is for the Liberals to be defeated and removed from power entirely.

Originally published at: www.SpencerFernando.com

The IMF, the BIS, World Bank, The UN, the Rockefeller Foundation, the World Economic Forum, Bank of America and even Biden himself are all predicting a major food crisis in the near term, and it is not a coincidence that the policies of these very institutions and the actions of puppet politicians that work with them are causing the crisis they are now predicting. That is to say, it’s easy to predict a disaster when you create the disaster.

The claim is that Russia’s invasion of Ukraine is the primary cause, but this is a distraction from the real issue. Yes, sanctions against Russia will eventually lead to less food supply, but the globalists and the media are purposely ignoring the bigger threat, which is currency devaluation and price inflation created by central banks pumping out tens of trillions of dollars in stimulus packages to prop up “too big to fail” corporate partners.

In 2020 alone, the Fed created over $6 trillion from nothing and air dropped it into the economy through covid welfare programs. Add that to the many trillions of dollars that the Fed has printed since the credit crash in 2008 — It has been a nonstop dollar destruction party and now the public is starting to feel the consequences. Lucky for the central bankers that covid struck and Russia invaded Ukraine, because now they can deflect all the blame for the inflationary calamity they have engineered onto the pandemic and onto Putin.

Inflation hit 40 year highs in the US well before Russia invaded Ukraine, but let’s consider the ramifications of that war and how it affects the food supply.

The Russian invasion certainly disrupts Ukrainian grain production, which makes up around 11% of the total world wheat market. Russia also maintains a 17% share and together these two nations feed a large swath of third world nations and parts of Europe with 30% of wheat and barley exports, 19% of corn exports, 23% of canola exports, and 78% of sunflower exports. It is the sanctions on Russia that are a problem well beyond Ukraine, however, as Russia also produces around 20% of global ammonia and 20% of global potash supplies. These are key ingredients to fertilizers used in large scale industrial farming. Farmers are estimating an overall price spike of around 10% in food markets, but I believe this is very conservative. I am already seeing overall price increases of at least 20% from six months ago, and I expect there to be another 30% in price hikes before this year is over. In other words, we are looking at 50% average increases in 2022.

Official government inflation data and CPI cannot be trusted. Double whatever numbers they give and you will be much closer to the truth. The inflation rate used by Shadowstats.com, calculated using methods once applied by the US government in the 1980s before they “adjusted” their models to hide the data, supports my position so far.

Inflation vs. Supply vs. Control

It’s not just globalist organizations talking about incoming food shortages; the CEO of international food corporation Goya has also recently warned we are on the precipice of a food crisis. As I have noted in the past, inflation leads to government price controls, price controls lead to lack of production incentives (profits), lack of profits leads to loss of production, loss of production leads to shortages, and shortages lead to government rationing (control over all large food sources).

As we have seen with almost every authoritarian regime in modern history, control over the food supply is key to controlling the population. It is only surpassed as a strategic concern by control over energy (which we will also see shortages of as soon as Europe sanctions Russian oil and gas and starts eating up supplies from other exporters). The food issue hits closest to home because we can see the effects immediately on our wallets and on our families. There is nothing worse for many parents than the prospect of their children going hungry.

The mainstream media is once again ignoring any potential economic threat, specifically, they are denying the notion of food shortages as something to be worried about. I say, why listen to a group of people that are always wrong on these types of events? If anything, I would at least take the words of the globalists seriously when it comes to economic collapse; they benefit the most from such disasters after all, and they also have the most influence when it comes to triggering crisis.

Originally published at alt-market.us

The Psychology of Totalitarianism by Mattias Desmet.

A Book Review

Todd Hayen, PhD, RP

In a word: Brilliant. In a sentence: Desmet answers compelling questions that we have been asking since day one of this Covid fiasco, and some of us asked quite a bit before that. No one else has, in my opinion, come close to fulfilling this task.

Let me start with a quote directly from the horse’s mouth:

Mass formation is, in essence, a kind of group hypnosis that destroys individuals’ ethical self-awareness and robs them of their ability to think critically. This process is insidious in nature; populations fall prey to it unsuspectingly. To put it in the words of Yuval Noah Harari: Most people wouldn’t even notice the shift towards a totalitarian regime. We associate totalitarianism mainly with labour, concentration, and extermination camps, but those are merely the final, bewildering stage of a long process.

This quote, found in the earlier pages of this excellent book, sets the stage for what is yet to come. Not only does this book answer the question foremost on everyone’s mind, “WTF?” it does so in a very organized, straightforward, and detailed way. The above quote illustrates what many of us have used in articles and commentaries for quite some time, the “boiling frog” analogy: put a frog in a pot of water on the stove, turn up the heat slowly, and he will be cooked (and quite dead) before he realizes any danger. Although many have triumphantly pointed out that in real life this simply is not true, I stick by the analogy, and besides, who said this is “real life”?

Desmet lays out his book the following way. It is divided into three parts, each part with detailed chapters. Part 1 is “Science and its Psychological Effects,” Part 2 is “Mass Formation and Totalitarianism,” Part 3, the final part, is “Beyond the Mechanistic Worldview.” Right off the bat, Desmet dives into the “set up” for the mess we are currently in (as well as the many messes the world has already experienced throughout the ages). To put it bluntly, the soil in which the seeds of totalitarianism are planted contains a fundamental corruption: the limitations set on science and the scientific method. In a word, this would be materialism (in a mechanistic cause and effect universe). And more succinctly, an insistence that the universe can be thoroughly, rigidly, and definitively, described through a quantitative and reductionist method. Desmet describes this confusion through the evolution of science in wonderful detail, coming to a modern conclusion when chaos theory was first introduced: “Chaos theory showed in a truly revolutionary way that matter is constantly organizing itself in ways that cannot possibly be explained in mechanistic terms.”

Another quote from the book:

Most are of the opinion that science consists of making dry, logical connections between “objectively” observable facts. However, science is, in fact, characterized by empathy, a resonant affinity between the observer and the phenomenon under investigation. As such, science stumbles upon an unknowable and mysterious essence that escapes logical explanation and which can be described only in the language of poetry and metaphor.

At this point some may be asking, “What does this have to do with mass formation psychosis?” Be patient. Desmet writes his book like a mystery novel building suspense as he slowly reveals the mysterious ways of the human psyche and the community of humans within it resides.

It is important to note that the rigidity of materialism and a mechanized universe causes a “deadness” and “meaninglessness” to life and to nature. All subjectivity is wiped out and is relegated to the “non real” garbage heap of zero significance.

Man may not realize it, but his humanity does not really matter, it is nothing essential. His whole existence, his longing and his lust, his romantic lamentations and his most superficial needs, his joy and his sorrow, his doubt and his choices, his anger and unreasonableness, his pleasure and his suffering, his deepest aversion and his most lofty aesthetic appreciations, in short, the entire drama of his existence, can ultimately be reduced to elementary particles that interact according to the laws of mechanics.

This is the credo of materialism.

Desmet continues with this theme of rigid materialism leading to a breakdown of human connection, not only a disconnection with fellow humans, but a disconnection with nature, and a disconnection with life itself.

Social connections were also transformed beyond recognition. The invention of radio and television led to the rise of the mass media and a corresponding decline in direct human interactions with a merely social function. Evening meetings between neighbours, pub gatherings, harvest festivals, rituals, and celebrations—they were progressively replaced by consumption of what the media presented. This seduced us into certain social laziness. It was no longer necessary to make the effort that is required for interaction with fellow human beings.

"Mass formation is,... a kind of group hypnosis that destroys individuals’ ethical self-awareness and robs them of their ability to think critically."

We are starting to see where this is going, eh?
More from Desmet:

To summarize, science led to a formidable ability to alter the material world through industrialization and mechanization. But this also gave rise to problems, especially regarding our relationships, both with each other, and with nature. Furthermore, we’re faced with problems that are caused by the fact that science—or that which passes for science today—is often neither accurate nor reliable.

Of course there is a lot more from Desmet than what I am quoting here, but this should give the reader of this review an idea of the flavour of his narrative. He continues with an explanation of the consequences of these sorts of disconnections and isolation and how it leads to a human state of loneliness, despair, hopelessness, anxiety, and meaninglessness. Bringing these observations to our current time and how they relate to the Covid crises Desmet explains:

With the coronavirus crisis, the trend towards a digital society made a big leap forward. Teleworking became the norm, student life took place online, aperitif and coffee were consumed in front of a television or computer screen, even sex was mediated through technological machinery and the death penalty was carried out from a safe digital distance. Initially, it was mainly seen as a necessity and occasionally as an advantage. People felt protected from the virus, saved time, avoided traffic jams, reduced their ecological footprint, and spared themselves the stress and discomfort that can characterize human encounters.

Desmet goes on to explain that this “digitalization” of life leads to “digital depression” and a myriad of other deep psychological and soulful assaults. The result is a disconnection to the things that make us human, and this condition, in fact, leads to totalitarianism, a centralized control by an all knowing entity. “Why is mankind so hopelessly seduced by the mechanistic ideology? Partly because it’s under the influence of the following illusion: that one is able to remove the discomforts of existence without having to question oneself at all.” The authority knows all. Desmet explains, “totalitarianism is ultimately the logical extension of a generalized obsession with science, the belief in an artificially created paradise.”

There is a lot of detail in this book regarding how authority affects the person, or mass, falling under the spell of “science obsession.” He cites numerous references to the Covid situation so those of you anxious to read about how Desmet’s theories illuminate the current situation, you will have plenty to mull over.

Desmet explains that there are four conditions for mass formation: 1. Generalized loneliness, social isolation, and lack of social bonds among the population. 2. Lack of meaning in life. 3. Widespread presence of free-floating anxiety and psychological unease within a population. 4. Free floating frustration and aggression. It is relatively easy to see how these four conditions can come about after understanding the foundation that creates them. Conformity abounds due to ritualistic behaviour in service to the collective (as per instructions from the totalitarian focal point).

Totalitarian systems typically make it nearly impossible for people to gather in larger groups, and they strive to sever all social and family ties and replace them with the only allowable bond: the one between the individual and the totalitarian system (that is, the collective).

After chapter 5 there is a little summation that the author offers us that helps with a more thorough understanding of what has just been read. These little summations appear throughout the book, and this reader found them very helpful in tying everything together. Dr. Desmet must certainly be a fine teacher!

Here it is:

In the first five chapters of this book, I described how the emergence of the mechanistic worldview brought society into a specific psychological condition over the past centuries. Society was increasingly gripped by a fanatical, mechanistic ideology that degenerated into dogma and blind belief (chapter 1); experiences of meaninglessness and social isolation increased hand over fist (chapter 2); hopes were increasingly placed on a utopian, technological solution to the problems inherent in human existence (chapter 3); public space was increasingly dominated by a pseudoscientific discourse of numbers, data, and statistics that completely blurred the line between scientific facts and fiction (chapter 4); and epidemic fear and uncertainty made the population yearn for absolute authority (chapter 5). In the present chapter, I’ll describe how, from here, the socially fragmented population suddenly reunites into a unit through the process of mass formation.

The final chapters contain suggestions regarding our future path, and investigates the efficacy of a particular approach in confronting this mass formation and the totalitarian regime being formed as a result (or was already present). The purpose of this review is to whet your appetite and to encourage you to have a read of this book’s entirety yourself. For anyone interested in the psychology at the heart of this Covid insanity, this is a must read.

The book can be purchased on Amazon or at BookShop.org

Article originally published at ShrewViews.com

Websites of Interest

Please note, these websites are provided as sources of alternative information. Druthers does not necessarily agree with all material found on these sites. Please use your own discretion, yet keep an open mind. Explore and analyze information and evidence with us.

You can visit druthers.net to get in touch.

vaccinechoicecanada.com	action4canada.com
freedomrising.info	americasfrontlinedoctors.com
worlddoctorsalliance.com	constitutionalconventions.ca
thehighwire.com	stopworldcontrol.com
corbettreport.com	evidencenotfear.com
pressfortruth.ca	activistpost.com
weareallessential.ca	freedomforumcanada.com
stand4thee.com	thefreedompages.ca
awarriorcalls.com	standupcanada.solutions
takeactioncanada.ca	lauralynn.tv
brightlightnews.com	libertycoalitioncanada.com
gbdeclaration.org	awakecanada.org
jccf.ca	VaccineRegret.net
swprs.org

“You Will Own Nothing”, So They Say

By Paul Grignon

“The issue which has swept down the centuries and which will have to be fought sooner or later is the people versus the banks.” Lord Acton 1834-1902

“Whenever a bank makes a loan, it simultaneously creates a matching deposit in the borrower’s bank account, thereby creating new money.” Money Creation in the Modern Economy (2014)

The above ‘banker’s privilege’, recently admitted to by the Bank of England and subsequently affirmed by the Riksbank (Sweden’s central bank) and the Swiss National bank is all that is needed to correctly understand what money is in the current system — principal debt to a bank. Central bank reserves are principal debt to the central bank. “Money” is principal debt to a commercial bank. See my previous article The Crucial Need to be Free of Monetary Misconceptions (Druthers, July 2022)

Bankers’ Magic

Most money is created as mortgages. When what we commonly refer to as ‘the borrower’ signs the loan document, promising to pay the bank let’s say one million dollars plus interest over time, the bank promises the borrower one million dollars by typing that number into the borrower’s chequing account. In this way, one million dollars of spendable new bank credit has been created. The bank has converted the borrower’s promise (liability) that the public would not accept as money into the bank’s promise (liability) that the public does accept as money. This process creates about 97% of the money supply in most developed nations.

The borrower buys the house and the borrower’s bank now owes the seller’s bank one million dollars in central bank reserves. Central bank reserves are credit for printed cash on demand. Central bank reserves are the real money of the system in that banks have to pay each other with central bank reserves which they are unable to create. Central bank reserves are created as someone’s promise, normally the national taxpayer, to pay the central bank. Only the interest is paid (by the taxpayer), which keeps the reserves and cash in existence. The interest pays for the operations of the central bank, with any excess returned to the national government. Cash and reserves are usually just a tiny fraction of the total money in existence, typically 3% in developed nations.

It should be noted that since the 2008 Crisis, central banks have been buying other forms of debt besides government bonds, calling it “quantitative easing”. It should also be noted that the ‘fractional reserve system’ which supposedly limits commercial banks to a regulated multiple of a fixed amount of central bank reserves is just a monetary myth. The truth is the opposite — new reserves are created by the central bank in response to an increase in the volume of commercial bank lending. The following excerpts should set the record straight.

from Money Creation in the Modern Economy
... “neither are reserves a binding constraint on lending, nor does the central bank fix the amount of reserves that are available, the relationship between reserves and loans typically operates in the reverse way to that described in some economics textbooks. Banks first decide how much to lend depending on the profitable lending opportunities available to them... It is these lending decisions that determine how many bank deposits are created by the banking system ... The amount of bank deposits in turn influ- ences how much central bank money banks want to hold in reserve ... Rather than controlling the quantity of reserves, central banks today typically implement monetary policy by setting the price of reserves — that is, interest rates.”

Now let’s return to the million dollars in central bank reserves our borrower’s bank owes the seller’s bank after the borrower’s cheque is deposited at the borrower’s bank needs only to receive a million dollars in the liabilities of other banks and the result will also be a net payment of zero.

The real world process is infinitely more complicated, but through the clearing system, most inter-bank debts cancel each other out. Banks that come up short on deposits pay interest to banks that have excess deposits at the “interbank rate”. This interest rate on interbank debt of reserves reduces any profit from making loans in excess of deposits, and thus disciplines banks to remain within their deposit base.

To recap: while banks do not lend depositors’ money, as people have long and wrongly assumed, banks still need a dollar deposit to make a dollar loan. The order is just reversed. First create new money. Then get the equivalent back as a deposit. As long as a bank receives deposits equal to or greater than withdrawals, it can create as much money as borrowers are willing to borrow.

Mathematically Inevitable Default

As a liability on a bank’s balance sheet, bank credit money ceases to exist when a principal payment is made to a bank.

In the current situation, the central bank seeks to reduce the inflation caused by the bank’s previous low interest rates and excessive money supply expansion. Interest rates are, therefore, being increased. The intention is to discourage new money creation. But the stability of the system depends on money creation never slowing down. See my previous article — The Crucial Need to be Free of Monetary Misconceptions (Druthers, July 2022)

If new money creation fails to keep pace with, or exceeds the amount of money repaid as principal debt and is extinguished, the inevitable result is a shrinkage in the amount of money in existence. Unless the shortage is made up by someone creating new debt, to fight a war for example, this has to mathematically cause certain defaults. People will lose their homes to the banks as in 2008. The banks can then sell them to investment companies.

Where will the investment companies get the money? They can borrow it into existence from the banks, thus rectifying the money shortage (“you will be happy”) and pay perpetual interest on that debt by renting to us what we used to own.

Here’s the Punch Line

Now it is time to note that banks can also buy real estate, stocks or any other saleable asset by creating new ‘money’ the same way they do for loans and bonds. The property goes on the asset side of the balance sheet. If they all do it, the liabilities they create will all come back to them. In this way, it doesn’t cost the banking system anything to buy up real property or to create new money for big corporate investors to do the same.

While I don’t know their plans, especially at what stage central banks may enter commercial banking with their central bank digital currencies, I would assume “You will own nothing” (and be happy about it, according to Klaus Schwab and The World Economic Forum of Globalists) must have a method behind it. The banker’s privilege, central or commercial, is all the banks ever needed to buy up everything either for themselves or favoured investors. This looks like that moment in history predicted by Lord Acton — when the banking system will manage to steal the whole world if we are confused and helpless about how they are doing it.

Default crises are an inherent part of banking system design. As such, they are an injustice against us that we have a right to resist.

I have much more money system analysis and solutions at moneyasdebt.net.

See my sub-chapter on Mortgages for a quick glimpse into a completely different world.

<http://paulgrignon.netfirms.com/MoneyasDebt/MAD2014/solution7mortgages.htm>

Paul Grignon is an artist and videographer, and the creator of the Money as Debt Trilogy.

"Default crises are an inherent part of banking system design. As such, they are an injustice against us that we have a right to resist."

seller’s bank. How can 3% reserves be enough to settle these transactions of the 97%? Quite easily.

If the seller’s bank is the same as the borrower’s bank, the million dollar liability of the borrower’s bank is to itself! The million dollars of bank liabilities just moved from one account to the other. Zero central bank reserves required.

If the million dollar cheque is deposited at a different bank, then the borrower’s bank does owe the seller’s bank a million dollars in central bank reserves. But, mathematically, the banking system acts as one bank because all of the banks are doing the same thing. The 30 Messages That Turned Out to be False

By Ted Kuntz | VaccineChoiceCanada.com

1. Two weeks to flatten the curve.

2. Safe and effective.

3. A vaccine is the only way out of this pandemic.

4. We follow the science.

5. Get vaccinated. Save grandma.

6. Boost your immunity and your community.

7. Vaccines are the most effective way to strengthen immune response.

8. COVID vaccines have been rigorously tested and are safe.

9. Help protect yourself and those you love.

10. Boosters are the most effective way to restore your immunity.

11. Evidence-based.

12. Two shots and done.

13. Masks work.

14. Social distancing works.
15. Lockdowns work.

16. Stay home. There is no early treatment.

17. Everyone is at risk.

18. Fact checked.

19. Restrictions have been lifted.

20. For your own safety.

21. Getting vaccinated is free, easy and safe.

22. Ivermectin does not reduce the risk of COVID.

23. Ivermectin is just paste for horses.

24. Public Health Agency of Canada closely monitors the safety of COVID-19 vaccines.

25. Your government cares about your health.

26. Fringe minority.

27. The Charter is the Supreme Law of Canada

28. Land of the free, home of the brave.

29. We are fully committed to maintaining accuracy, integrity, balance, impartiality and fairness in our journalism – Canadian Broadcast Corporation

30. We are all in this together.

The Invisible War

We're two years into World War Three, yet most people are unaware

By Guy Crittenden

Opponents of the globalists' current restructuring of the planetary economy in favour of plutocrats find themselves in a predicament. A dire one. The world is currently at war — a war much larger than any in recorded history. Yet, strangely, most are unaware of it.

I call this the "invisible war." It's invisible to most because it's not a nation-on-nation conflict. Young uniformed men aren't being shipped to shed their blood on foreign soil; instead, this is a class war. The oligarchy, the one per cent, or whatever you want to call them, have infiltrated the governments of every nation on earth, and are predated on the general population.

Their long-term plan includes drastic population reduction and virtual enslavement of the survivors. True, it sounds like the plot of a bad sci-fi movie, yet it's happening and World Economic Forum (WEF) founder Klaus Schwab openly brags about it.

Mussolini first noted that when big government and large corporations collude, we have fascism. After he ended up swinging from a noose, the old European aristocracy and corporate elites switched out their shiny jackboots and swastikas for business suits and bland corporate logos. Yet their goals never changed.

The Davos set, some of whose parents and grandparents bankrolled both sides of the world wars and many other conflicts, are explicitly installing the New World Order (recently renamed "global governance").

Things are so apocalyptic now that even feminist fire-brand Naomi Wolf has turned to the Bible to cope with such revelations as that the only safety study of the "vaccines" for pregnant women involved 44 pregnant rats in a French lab, two thirds of which miscarried. Funny how we don't hear about that on CNN. The invisible war is playing out between national gov-tries. Alternative voices are corralled today in BitChute, Telegram, and a few fringe apps that are slated for deletion, with an excuse provided by bots that post racist and homophobic comments below important podcasts. Some investment programs on YouTube have cottoned on to the controlled demolition of the world economy and the deliberate disruption of food supplies. They may not openly talk about the millions of injuries and deaths from the "vaccines," but many hint that a worldwide famine is being orchestrated. Some say the US Fed "doesn't know what it's doing," money managers are "incompetent," and that the government has miscalculated.

Um, sorry. No. The central bankers know precisely what they're doing. It's calculated. Planned. They're working from a script, handed down from the Baphomet-worshipping apex predators about whom Stanley Kubrick warned in his film Eyes Wide Shut.

Folks are going to have to wrap their heads about some bizarre realities to grasp how all-encompassing the deception and power grab is. Our corporatized governments have the technology to control the weather. Ergo the deliberate, contrived, purposeful destruction via floods of Australia's Gold Coast to make way for "Smart Cities." Ergo the heat waves in Europe. The oligarchs can fabricate evidence for the vast climate change fraud first conceived by the Club of Rome (another Rockefeller organization.)

Chillingly, the vast majority of people in hospital ICUs and so-called "COVID" deaths are among vaccinated people. The monkeypox psyop provides cover for this, since its symptoms match those of people whose immune systems are collapsing from the lethal injections. The symptoms, which include shingles, are similar to late-stage AIDS patients (to cite another genocide artfully constructed by Anthony Fauci).

Only in the alternative media do we learn about the findings of Spanish researchers at La Quinta Columna (confirmed by labs on every continent) that the vials of Pfizer and Moderna and other "vaccines" contain graphene oxide that self-assembles into complex nanotech. And that the injections don't stay at the injection site, but travel throughout the body. And that the Trojan horse lipid coating allows the drug to penetrate the cell nucleus and permanently alter the DNA of the person and their offspring, poisoning the genetic code of our species forever. And there's evidence all this interacts somehow with 5G EMF radiation for some nefarious purpose.

Insurance executives have noted that since the vaccine rollout (not COVID), all-cause mortality has risen by 40 per cent among working age people. Cancers are exploding, along with strokes, heart attacks and myocarditis. Morticians are unable to pump corpses with embalming fluid because arteries of the cadavers are filled with strange long filaments of some alien material they say resembles calamari. Funeral homes are now ordering child-size caskets in bulk.

I'm at a loss about what more to say. I could offer enough examples of the "invisible war" on the human family to fill a phone book. There's the paying of farmers to destroy crops, the burning to the ground of food processing plants, and even the prohibition of collecting rainwater in some places. There's the deceptive "alien invasion" the elites are cultivating as perhaps their final playing card.

We need to fight back, people. Fight for our freedom like we fought for toilet paper.

The other side is organized. Highly organized. They've planned this for decades, and perhaps generations. Please wake up. Please join us.

We never voted for any of this, and time is running out.

Guy Crittenden is a freelance writer and author of the award-winning book The Year of Drinking Magic: Twelve Ceremonies with the Vine of Souls (Apocryphile Press, San Francisco). Follow Guy at HipGnosis.co ernments and ordinary citizens.

Ergo the predicament in which members of the resistance find themselves. Our friends and families are captured by thought memes along the lines of "no one could be that evil" and "too many people would have to be in on it." Even when we manage to pry their eyes open a little, they reflexively hope "the government" will change course, not realizing governments are intentionally destroying life as we know it.

What's being installed is not simply fascism or communism. It's a mashup of both called technocracy in which AI will control a China-style social credit score system and central bank digital currency (CBDC). Combined with digital IDs and transhumanist modification of our bodies, it'll be game, set, match for the globalists. Former investment banker Catherine Austin Fitts believes this setup is only six to 18 months away. If people don't rise up, right now, life will look mightily like the UK's Orwellian Black Mirror television series. Your acquiescence will determine whether you can step outside your 300-square-foot pod apartment or use a QR code on your not-so-smart device to open locked glass cabinets at the supermarket.

Heck, the Black Mirror episode with the weaponized robot dog is already a thing! Go watch the YouTube videos.

The globalists didn't move for all the marbles until they'd completely taken over the mainstream media — something facilitated by President Bill Clinton's promulgation of the 1988 Telecommunications Act. Thousands of media businesses consolidated into a monolithic half-dozen firms cross-owned by investors in the pharmaceutical and military equipment indus-

Advertisement

Share This Film - Our Future Depends On It

This film reveals that we have been massively deceived by our own governments, public health, and mainstream media.

Ted Kuntz - President - Vaccine Choice Canada

An in-depth look into the Covid 19 narrative, who's controlling it, and how it's being used to inject an untested, new technology into almost every person on the planet.

The film explores how the narrative is being used to strip us of our human rights while weaving in the impact of mandates in a deeply powerful story of one man's tragic loss

Hear the truth from doctors and scientists not afraid to stand up against Big Pharma and the elite class who profit from mandates.

REVIEWS

"Can't wait for this movie to come out. Crude propaganda "crisis of the uninjected" followed by censorship, reprisal and totalitarian brute force on the people. I say bring it on!"
Dr. Peter McCullough - Internist & Cardiologist - Professor of Medicine

Todd is a brilliant filmmaker who has a unique way of exposing the devastation to families from the mandates.

Odessa Orlewicz - Partner - Librti.com

"Uninformed Consent is the most scientific and factual TRUTH to come out of Canada in the last 3 years. If you are a parent, this should be on the TOP of your viewing list. It is TRULY an eye-opener. Everyone needs to see this film!"

Amanda Forbes, Children's Health Defence

This is the most powerful documentary of the Covid era.
Sherry Strong - Children's Health Defense Canada

SHARE THE FULL FILM EVERYWHERE!
<https://librti.com/uninformed-consent>

Army Veteran James Topp Marches For Freedom

By CanadaMarches.ca

James Topp, the 28-year veteran of the Canadian Armed Forces Regular Force Infantry, completed Phase 1 of his march on June 30, 2022, at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Ottawa. He began his peaceful demonstration in the form of an organized cross-country march in Vancouver, BC on Feb. 20, due to the government's overreaching mandates in place at that time.

On that day, James and the Canada Marches team began the final leg of the march at 10am in Nepean at Bell's Corner, with rest stops at Hog's Back Park and a parking lot located along the way where an estimated 1300+ supporters met and marched with him and the team.

Arrival at The Tomb was set for 6pm EST, at which time, James completed what he had initially set out to accomplish, which was placing his hand upon the Tomb. The event organization and implementation was assisted from start to finish by members of Veterans4Freedom (V4F), a partnering organization with Canada Marches, of which James is also a member.

As James stepped towards the Tomb, after setting his rucksack down and removing a ceremonial Canadian Flag (presented to him on his retirement from the Regular Force along with a Thank you note for his many years of service, from the Prime Minister) from his pack, which he laid at the base of the Tomb. The crowd that had gathered to witness the completion of the march, along with numerous independent journalists and live-streamers, was hushed in reverence of the magnitude of the moment he laid his hand upon the Tomb. (A replay of the livestream from the entire day's events has been made available to watch on the "James Topp: Youtube channel.") James addressed the crowd of supporters afterwards, and thanked both his team and the supporters.

The decision to continue marching from East to West was determined by James and the team because most mandates have merely been suspended, not repealed. James and the team were successful in securing a meet-for the following reasons:

1. Protesting federal government mandates:
 - a.) that require, as a condition for employment or continued employment, vaccination, testing, quarantine, and/or isolation;
 - b.) that require proof of vaccination or taking part in an attestation process; and
 - c.) that arbitrarily place employees or members on leave without pay or termination of employees should they disagree with the policy.
2. James has stepped forward to speak on behalf of:
 - a.) Personnel employed by the federal government who have been denied access to employment and services, who have lost income and suffered from damaged relationships due to the imposition of a medical procedure.
 - b.) Members of the CAF that are still suffering from the effects of the CDS directive regarding vaccination and whose objections to the policy resulted in the destruction of their careers.
 - c.) Those individuals who have been pressured into taking part in ing with several Members of Parliament on June 22nd in the Parliamentary Precinct, where James laid out a clear and concise plan forward. The plan itself consists of 3R's = Repair (Repeal, Reinstate and Restitution leads to Repair). This meeting was thought to be the first of its kind that a citizen has secured with success in gathering a number of MP's to hear the concerns from the public, and its due in part to the letter writing campaign that Canada Marches supporters took part in with James having started the process by writing invitation letters to all 338 MP's and sitting Senators.

Photo by Logan Murphy, Canada Marches Official Photographer

Phase 2 of the March began from Signal Hill in St. John's, Newfoundland, on July 18, with the end point set for Southern Ontario (either GTA or Windsor, Ont). The peaceful demonstration of marching that James and the Canada Marches team have again embarked upon, exists medical procedures that they would not otherwise have accepted.

James and the Canada Marches team are now back in full swing marching (on a 5 day rotating schedule of marching for 5 days, followed by a rest/admin day), updating supporters via videos, and writing a letter to the DND Ombudsman.

For more information on #CanadaMarches please visit www.CanadaMarches.ca and sign up for the Newsletter to receive weekly updates. Alternatively, you can find and follow his mission on any one of the multiple social media platforms including but not limited to: Facebook, Instagram, Twitter or Youtube.

Next month, we will highlight the Canadian Citizens Coalition (C3) introduction and give more information about the newly formed organization.

The Dutch Farmers' Protest and the War on Food

Kit Knightly | off-guardian.org

This week, tens of thousands of farmers have gathered from all across the Netherlands to protest government policies which will reduce the number of livestock in the country by up to a third.

In a typical example of media weasel-wording, the press reports on this feature headlines like "Dutch farmers protest emissions targets" (<https://www.eurone.ws.com/green/2022/06/23/we-are-not-pollution-producers-dutch-farmers-block-roads-in-protest-against-emissions-targ>), but this is a massive lie by omission.

The government policy being protested (<https://www.theguardian.com/environment/2021/dec/15/netherlands-announces-25bn-plan-to-radically-reduce-livestock-numbers>) is a 25 BILLION Euro investment in "reducing levels of nitrogen pollution" true, but it plans to achieve this by (among other things) "paying some Dutch livestock farmers to relocate or exit the industry".

In real terms, this ultimately means reducing the number of pigs, chickens and cows by about 30%.

That's what is being protested here — a deliberate shrinking of the farming sector, impacting the livelihood of thousands of farmers, and the food supply of literally hundreds of millions of people.

The Big Picture

While the scheme is allegedly about limiting nitrogen and ammonia emissions from urine and manure it's hard not to see this in the broader context of the ongoing created food crisis (<https://off-guardian.org/2022/04/25/5-signs-they-are-creating-a-food-crisis/>).

The Netherlands produces a massive food surplus and is one of the largest exporters of meat in the world and THE largest in Europe. Reducing its output by a third could have huge implications for the global food supply, especially in Western Europe.

Perhaps more troubling is how this could act as a precedent.

This isn't the first "pay farmers not to farm" scheme launched in the last year — both the UK (<https://www.gov.uk/government/news/government-commits-to-support-farmers-who-wish-to-leave-the-industry>) and US have put such schemes in place — but a government paying to reduce it's own meat production? That is a first.

That it is (allegedly) being done to "protect the environment" makes it a big warning sign for the future. Denmark, Belgium and Germany are already considering similar policies (<https://www.politico.eu/article/livestock-netherlands-cows-pigs-chickens-farming-agriculture/>).

The Western world seems to be enthusiastically embracing quasi-suicidal policies.

I mean, paying farmers to reduce the amount of food they produce... while (notionally) threatened with war...in the midst of a recession (<https://economics.rabobank.com/publications/2022/june/dutch-economy-likely-to-face-mild-recession/>) ... facing record inflation (<https://www.theguardian.com/business/2022/jul/01/inflation-in-euro-zone-hits-record-86-as-ukraine-war-continues>) as the cost of living spirals.

Does that really make any sense?

That's almost as crazy as refusing new oil and gas leases (<https://www.cnn.com/2022/02/24/biden-administration-pausing-new-oil-and-gas-leases-amid-legal-battle.html>) while the cost of petrol is going up.

Indeed, in a world beset by a shortage of fertilizer due to sanctions against Russia and Belarus, it would seem almost mad to complain about a manure surplus, let alone try to reduce it.

We're well past the point where any of this could be considered accidental, aren't we?

Put it this way — if the collective governments of the Western world were trying to impoverish and starve their own citizens, what exactly would they be doing differently?

Originally published at off-guardian.org

Advertisement

STRATEGIC ENTERPRISE DEVELOPMENT INC.

- THE FUTURE IS VISIONARY -

MADE IN CANADA

WITH UNLIMITED CREATIVE IMAGINATION

ADVANCE IN THE DIRECTION OF THE FUTURE, WITH AN EXTRA-ORDINARY VISION.
TO BUILD GREAT THINGS TOGETHER.

HTTPS://WWW.STRATEGIC-ENTERPRISE.CA

Is it Antisemitic to Compare the Policies of Covid With the Policies of Nazi Germany?

By Diane Bederman | DianeBederman.com

It's a very small group of people, but that doesn't shy away from the fact that they take up some space. This leads us, as a leader and as a country, to make a choice: Do we tolerate these people? PM Justin Trudeau

Is it antisemitic to compare the policies of Covid with the policies of Nazi Germany?

I put it to you that it is antisemitic not to compare the two. It means we have forgotten the lessons we were to have learned from the Nuremberg Trials. Trials that were the result of Nazi policies that had led to the eradication of 6 million Jews, and gay and mentally and physically disabled Germans, because they did not fit the German paradigm. The trials exposed the abuse of medicine by evil doctors, like Mengele, which led to the Nuremberg Code, forbidding coercive medical measures, and the Nuremberg Defense which gives one the right and obligation to refuse to follow immoral and unethical orders; no matter who gives the order.

This knowledge is Biblical. From the late Lord Rabbi Sacks:

We learn about the obligation to say no from the story of the midwives, Shifra and Puah, who were ordered by Pharaoh to kill the newborn Jewish babies. They refused.

"The midwives, however, feared God and did not do what the King of Egypt had told them to do; they let the boys live" (Ex. 1:17).

The lesson learned "The Nuremberg principle gave legal substance to what the midwives instinctively understood: that there are some orders that should not be obeyed, because they are immoral. Moral law transcends and may override the law of the state. As the Talmud puts it:

"If there is a conflict between the words of the Master [God] and the words of a disciple [a human being], the words of the Master must prevail." (Kiddushin 42b).

We think of ourselves as superior to the highly educated, enlightened German people, who snitched on their neighbours, be they Jews or disabled or gay, in the name of the greater good; or stood by while friends, neighbours and strangers were publicly taken down to the ground and handcuffed and dragged away, or removed from their own homes for not following the man made laws. Look how easily the Germans took to showing their papers (<https://dianebederman.com/when-they-say-show-me-your-papers-show-them-the-nuremberg-code/>) to authorities. Heaven help you if you did not have those papers. We would never behave like that!

But we did, and we do. And it is a travesty to the memory of the dead. We have forgotten. Does anyone, today, believe that the Germans had any idea of the result of their obedience? That it would lead to the Shoah? They were just following the orders, I mean edicts, of their politicians; one edict at a time; giving up one freedom after another. It all started with the Nuremberg Laws (<https://encyclopedia.ushmm.org/content/en/article/nuremberg-laws>), the Reich Citizenship Law and the Law for the Protection of German Blood and German Honor in 1935 that scapegoated the Jews; they were not to be tolerated.

Here we are in 2022 and our leaders are scapegoating the non-vaccinated, blaming them for the continuation of the pandemic. Like other evil leaders, they divide rather than unite. They promote fear rather than courage and strength. Pit one group against another. They ignored the lessons we were to have learned from WWII.

Here is Justin Trudeau (<https://twitter.com/DTeplitzer/status/1476714192551886850>), a sanctimonious self-serving, self-righteous, inept, unethical, immoral (<https://dianebederman.com/justin-trudeau-the-most-immoral-unethical-politician-in-canadian-history/>) and corrupt man, who can now add evil to the list.

He shared these views (<https://westernstandardonline.com/2021/12/trudeau-calls-the-unvaccinated-racist-and-misogynistic-extremists/>) in French.

"We are going to end this pandemic by proceeding with the vaccination. We all know people who are deciding whether or not they are willing to get vaccinated, and we will do our very best to try to convince them. However, there is still a part of the population (that) is fiercely against it. They don't believe in science/progress and are very often misogynistic and racist. It's a very small group of people, but that doesn't shy away from the fact that they take up some space. This leads us, as a leader and as a country, to make a choice: Do we tolerate these people? Over 80% of the population of Quebec have done their duty by getting the shot. They are obviously not the issue in this situation."

WHAT?

And US President Joe Biden (<https://www.cnn.com/2021/12/16/politics/joe-biden-warning-winter/index.html>).

Photo credit; Yiannis Papadimitriou / Shutterstock.com

com/2021/12/16/politics/joe-biden-warning-winter/index.html).

"I want to send a direct message to the American people: Due to the steps we've taken Omicron has not yet spread as fast as it would have otherwise done. But it's here now and it's spreading and it's gonna increase... We are looking at a winter of severe illness and death for the unvaccinated — for themselves, their families and the hospitals they'll soon overwhelm. But there's good news: If you're vaccinated and you have your booster shot, you're protected from severe illness and death."

"...there are some orders that should not be obeyed, because they are immoral. Moral law transcends and may override the law of the state."

Sub text — it's the fault of the unvaccinated (<https://tnc.news/2022/01/03/majority-of-canadians-including-the-vaccinated-oppose-vaccine-mandates/>); those evil people.

If we had remembered, as we promised NEVER FORGET, we would never have allowed our elected officials, leaders, doctors, to take away our God given rights and freedoms. We would never have allowed these people to separate us into essential and nonessential, when all life is sacred, separate us from our elderly loved ones, desperately in need of care. And the moment we did that, we let those leaders know that we would bend the knee to the commands of false gods. And the vast majority of the free world did that. They submitted out of fear and ignorance of international law: Nuremberg.

From Australia (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-australia-59486285>) to Austria (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2021/dec/12/austria-ends-covid-lockdown-restrictions-for-vaccinated-people>), and every point in between, we watched police officers take down unmasked people, standing outside, or sitting on a bench at the beach, alone. We saw police (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/montreal/public-health-restrictions-quebec-covid-19-1.5745046>) enter the homes of people who had "too many" guests in the house. Too many family members at the table! (Thanks to snitches reporting on their neighbours: echoes of the past). Police (<https://twitter.com/i/status/1477514657531404289>) on loudspeaker telling people to get home before curfew or expect fines. We watched as police (https://www.theepochtimes.com/police-use-attack-dogs-as-thousands-protest-against-dutch-covid-19-lockdowns_4189086.html) used water guns to break up protests. Just following the orders of their political leaders.

And then we were told "Show me your papers!"

Then there was the Premier of New Brunswick (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/new-brunswick/pandemic-rules-civil-liberties-association-1.6284670>) who suggested the non-vaccinated not be allowed into grocery stores. And Margaret Buttimer (<https://www.breitbart.com/europe/2021/12/19/irish-grandma-who-violated-mask-mandate-spend-christmas-behind-bars/>), a 66-year-old grandmother, spent Christmas behind bars after being sentenced to one year in prison for violating Ireland's mask mandate, with six months of the sentence being suspended. And then we have the Calgary police taking down a Pastor (<https://twitter.com/i/status/1477477485843566595>). "Just following orders!" Does this sound familiar?

And curfews (https://www.theepochtimes.com/quebec-to-reinstate-nightly-curfew-on-new-years-eve_4186537.html) imposed as if Covid comes out at night.

And how about New York State (<https://www.nationalreview.com/corner/new-york-to-consider-bill-allowing-extra-judicial-detention-in-health-emergency/>)!

The New York State Senate and Assembly could potentially vote on a bill in the next session that would give the governor and his or her delegates permissions to remove and detain cases, contacts, carriers or any person who is potentially a "significant threat to public health."

The individual or group may be held in a medical facility or "any other they deem appropriate."

Ghetto? Internment camp; like the ones in Australia (<https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-10302857/This-not-just-Australias-problem-Comedian-Russell-Brand-slams-Dan-Andrews-new-pandemic-laws.html>)? Whether this comes about in New York, or not, that they would propose it is unconscionable. Or so one would have thought.

Has no one been taught the Nuremberg Code (<https://dianebederman.com/dear-doctors-time-for-you-to-clue-in-to-your-obligations-to-the-nuremberg-code-and->)? Is that the problem? We ignored one of the most important documents ever written regarding the sanctity of all life because we saw how easily man made laws bring out the dark within us. A document that honoured the murdered and kept their memory alive, and here we are with leaders behaving like Nazis.

Too many doctors feared their Colleges who forbade vaccine exemptions, or prescribing approved drugs off-label (https://www.theepochtimes.com/did-dismissals-of-safe-outpatient-drugs-cause-needless-covid-deaths-dissenting-doctors-say-yes_4183326.html). Medical colleges treating all people as one unit instead of following their own guidelines (<https://www.cpsa.on.ca/Physicians/Policies-Guidance/Statements-Positions/Clinical-Practice-Guidelines>) that each patient is an individual and must be treated that way.

Thankfully there are doctors who invoke the Nuremberg Code, including Dr. McCullough (https://www.theepochtimes.com/dr-peter-mccullough-vaccine-mandates-should-be-repealed_4167066.html), a cardiologist, epidemiologist, and internist who manages COVID-19 patients with heart-related complications and patients who become ill after receiving a COVID-19 vaccine. He contends that COVID-19 vaccine mandates violate the Nuremberg Code.

"When it comes to research, research can only be voluntary. And under no circumstances can anyone receive any pressure, coercion, or threat of reprisal — cannot. It violates the cornerstone of ethics; it's unethical, it's immoral to do that."

McCullough notes that the CDC and FDA have yet to publish "their first monthly safety report" on the vaccines, and that as of Dec. 17, the CDC's VAERS (Vaccine Adverse Events Reporting System) has reported 20,622 deaths post-vaccination and over 983,000 adverse events.

And Dr. Robert Malone (<https://www.sportskeeda.com/mma/news-what-joe-rogan-s-podcast-guest-dr-robert-malone-say-covid-19-vaccine-show>).

And Canada's Dr. Kulvinder Kaur (<https://twitter.com/dockaurG>).

Of 29 Pregnant Women That Received Pfizer’s COVID-19 Inoculation, Only One Had a Baby That Lived

By Dr. Byram Bridle | viralimmunologist.substack.com

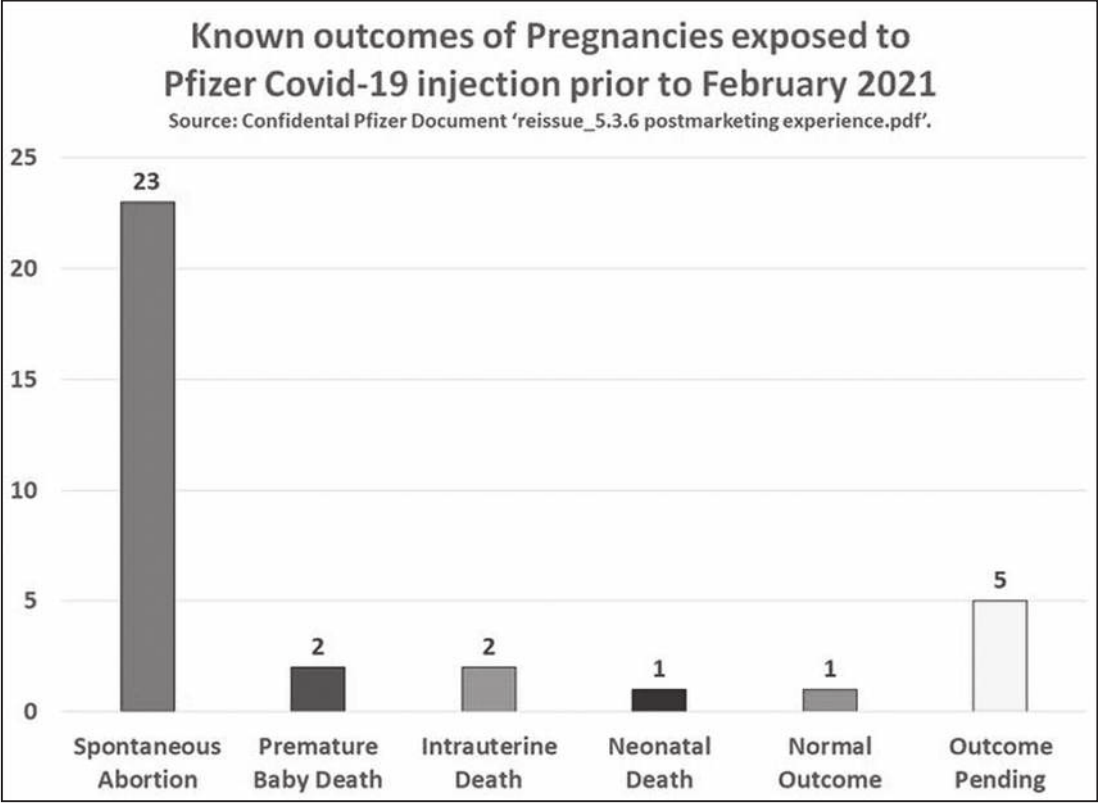

The United States Food and Drug Administration (US-FDA) had requested 75 years to release the documents that they reviewed from Pfizer prior to issuing emergency use authorization for the Pfizer-BioNTech BNT162b mRNA ‘vaccine’ (Comirnaty) against SARS-CoV-2, which can cause COVID-19. However, a judge over-ruled this and issued a court order that the documents be released in large monthly installments. Today, an absolutely shocking set of data was brought to my attention. They are not new. They are from a document that was in the data dump released back in May of this year. However, I want to help my fellow scientists in making sure that this science gets widely distributed throughout the world. This is for the sake of ‘fully informed consent’, something that regulatory agencies, public health officials and too many physicians seem to have abandoned over the past couple of years.

For a long time I have been arguing that our children need to be left out of the massive conflicts over the science underpinning COVID-19. In my opinion, adults can conduct their own risk-benefit analyses regarding whether they want to receive one of the current COVID-19 inoculations. However, far too many adults are making these decisions based on pseudo-science, data from flawed studies, misinformation, and outright disinformation being propagated by physicians and public health officials, many of whom are unqualified to opine on anything in the field of vaccinology. I have never felt comfortable about these injections being used in ‘children, adolescents and young-adults of child-bearing age’. This was the precise terminology I used in a parent’s guide to COVID-19 vaccines that I wrote more than one year ago.

The highest quality data for assessing a novel medical product are derived from clinical studies. This is because these types of experiments in people are typically well-controlled and include what is known as ‘active monitoring’; there is follow-up to assess safety and efficacy. This is why the clinical testing phases should never be compromised. With this in mind, let’s explore a stunning set of data that Pfizer provided to the US-FDA. Here is the relevant document... (see: <https://viralimmunologist.substack.com/p/of-29-pregnant-women-that-had-received>)

The data in this document were accumulated up until February 28, 2021. Notably, on page 9, safety concerns based on the US Pharmacovigilance Plan included “missing information” on “Use in Pregnancy and lactation”. The data that had accumulated up to the end of February, 2021 were from too small of a sample size (i.e., # of pregnant or lactating women) to justify its use in these populations. However, here are the data that were available at that time regarding outcomes in pregnant women that had received Pfizer’s COVID-19 inoculation; this is quoted from the top of table 6 (I have italicized and/or bolded the most important points)...

Pregnancy cases: 274 cases including:

- 270 mother cases and 4 foetus/baby cases representing 270 unique pregnancies(the 4 foetus/baby cases were linked to 3 mother cases; 1 mother case involved twins).
- Pregnancy outcomes for the 270 pregnancies were reported as spontaneous abortion (23), outcome pending (5), premature birth with neonatal death, spontaneous abortion with intrauterine death (2 each), spontaneous abortion with neonatal death, and normal outcome (1 each). No outcome was provided for 238 pregnancies (note that 2 different outcomes were reported for each twin, and both were counted).

Apparently, outcomes will never be known for 88% (238/270) of the pregnancies. Why was the follow-up rate in these cases so abysmal?

NutriTruth has a great graph on their website that summarizes the results from cases for which follow-up data were available...

It appears that data would be available for five of the pregnancies, but these outcomes were still unknown at the time that Pfizer’s document was written. As such, there is solid data available from 29 pregnancies. One out of 29 of these pregnancies resulted in a ‘normal’ outcome. This means that 28 out of the 29 babies died! That is a 97% death rate. I don’t care which trustworthy data set you look at to determine a ‘background’ death rate, none of them come close to 97%. Spontaneous abortions are more common than many people appreciate, but, again, they are nowhere near the rate in this study. Even in the case of the ‘normal outcome’, this means there was an apparently healthy baby. However, one cannot be certain that the outcome was ‘normal’, until the baby has had all of their physiological systems fully mature, which means early adulthood.

I have looked at Pfizer’s preclinical reproductive toxicity data and they are fatally flawed. Issues included ‘vaccinating’ the females only; apparently it was forgotten that ‘it takes two to tango’. Also, the rodent models that were used express the low-affinity version of the receptor for the spike protein encoded by the ‘vaccines’. People express the high-affinity receptor. This means the rodent models aren’t capable of revealing toxicities that might be associated with the spike protein. In short, the pre-clinical studies could provide no assurance whatsoever that Pfizer’s vaccine would be safe in the context of pregnancy. Now there is proof that data were in the hands of regulatory agencies that suggested the potential for a 97% fatality rate for babies from ‘vaccinated’ women.

I have collaborated with scientists and physicians about the post-rollout ‘real-world’ studies on pregnancy and the COVID-19 shots. They are highly flawed. I co-authored a paper about this, but have yet to find an editor that will even allow it to undergo peer review (I have had no problems with this for any of my cancer- or basic virology-focused papers). Regardless, many other reputable scientists and physicians have been addressing this. Further, these ‘real-world’ studies should never have been authorized based on the data presented here.

Many countries have pushed Pfizer’s COVID-19 ‘vaccine’ on pregnant women, often via mandates. This was done with the full blessing of their societies for obstetrics and gynecology. Are obstetricians and gynecologists going to continue to make these recommendations with these data in-hand? At the end of the day, couples experiencing pregnancies or who wish to do so must make it their own responsibility to educate themselves to facilitate fully informed consent. Too many obstetricians and gynecologists are either too superficially trained in the immunological sub-discipline of vaccinology or are too afraid of contradicting a narrative for which dissent is punished. Some physicians are starting to speak up about this. Unfortunately, their singular personal observations are simply deemed anecdotal. However, as a scientist, I have been trained to observe the cumulative nature of these reports; to not dismiss them out-of-hand, and to use them to formulate legitimate scientific questions.

If you or your baby have experienced any issues post-inoculation, please report these to your physician. They are obligated to submit an adverse event report, without opining on whether or not they think it might or might not be related. The accumulation of these reports is the only way scientists can help identify safety signals during a public rollout of a novel medical product.

A 97% death rate among babies from pregnant mothers that were ‘vaccinated’ is appalling. And this was from Pfizer’s own clinical trial data. This suggests a massive breakdown in the health regulatory process. The public, whom health regulatory agencies are to be serving, should demand accountability from these government-run institutions.

If I were a regulatory scientist assessing the pregnancy outcome data from Pfizer, there is no way that I would ever have supported the use of their inoculation in pregnant women. And I would never have allowed ‘real-world’ data from flawed studies to replace proper pre-clinical and clinical trials. Nor would I remain silent about this knowledge. Regulators who know better need to start speaking up.

Dr. Bridle is an Associate Professor of Viral Immunology in the Department of Pathobiology at the University of Guelph. You may follow his work at viralimmunologist.substack.com.

Mandates: Crimes Against Humanity?

Continued from p.8

And the tens of thousands of scientists and medical professionals who signed the Great Barrington Declaration (https://www.theepochtimes.com/the-collins-and-fauci-attack-on-traditional-public-health_4187173.html) who were then attacked by Fauci and Collins (<https://www.nationalreview.com/corner/how-our-federal-overseers-do-science/>), who for reasons they have not shared, refused to allow different views on Covid and its treatment to be shared anywhere, including MSM and social media.

“When we wrote the Declaration, we knew that we were putting our professional careers at risk, as well as our ability to provide for our families. That was a conscious decision on our part, and we fully sympathize with people who instead decided to focus on maintaining their important research laboratories and activities.”

Sympathize all you want, these people failed (https://www.theepochtimes.com/the-collins-and-fauci-attack-on-traditional-public-health_4187173.html) their Hippocratic Oath and the Nuremberg Code.

There are lawyers like Reiner Fuellmich (<https://worlddoctorsalliance.com/tags/reiner-fuellmich/>), who have looked into Crimes Against Humanity. The German Corona Investigative Committee (<https://worlddoctor-salliance.com/blog/crimes-against-humanity-the-german-corona-investigation/>), the GERMAN investigative team, oh the irony, has taken testimony from a large number of international scientists and experts since July 10, 2020. Where have all the other lawyers been?

How sad.
We need a repeat of the Nuremberg Trials with Anthony Fauci in the prisoner’s box.

NEVER FORGET
It seems the previous trials have been forgotten. And that is antisemitic.

From the Ethics of the Fathers: “Rabbi Tarfon used to say, it is not incumbent upon you to complete the task, but you are not exempt from undertaking it.”

Originally published at DianeBederman.com

Government-Funded School Pamphlet Calls Canada’s Red Ensign a “Hate Symbol”

By Andrew Kozak | TNC.news

A booklet (https://www.antihate.school/introduction_toolkit) made for school children that calls the Red Ensign flag a hate symbol and identifies the Conservative Party as a target of “infiltration” by racists was approved by Cabinet recently as a taxpayer-funded project.

“This new resource will be delivered through workshops in schools across the country and it will help raise awareness with students,” Diversity Minister Ahmed Hussen told reporters. The booklet would help “teach core values to our kids,” he said.

According to Blacklock’s Reporter, Hussen approved a $268,400 grant to fund the guide Confronting and Preventing Hate in Canadian Schools. The guide, written by the Canadian Anti-Hate Network (CAHN), also warns students to be wary of classmates who speak fondly of Donald Trump.

CAHN is a federally-subsidized group that earlier received an identical $268,400 grant to operate its website. Hussen says it is “an organization that I respect very much.”

In a chapter on “hate promoting symbols,” the booklet names the Red Ensign flag as offensive even though it was used as Canada’s national symbol until 1965.

“Its usage denotes a desire to return to Canada’s demographics before 1967 when it was predominantly white,” the booklet says.

The booklet refers to the Conservative Party twice as a group whose members include bigots and “groypers” defined as a “loose collection of young white nationalists.” Without elaborating, the guide writes that “they sometimes attempt to infiltrate mainstream Conservative political parties.”

“In 2020 McMaster University Conservatives were scrutinized by allowing members with overly bigoted beliefs and ties,” wrote CAHN. They also cited their own website as a source. Common “conservative campus groups” were also named.

No other political parties were named in the guide.

The guide also asks children to challenge other students who speak in favour of “problematic” public office holders. “Sometimes educators and students will find themselves in the position of requiring an immediate response to a student in class who invokes a bigoted ideology,” it says.

“While these situations should be treated carefully they need to be addressed as they happen,” the guide writes. “These incidents can range from mild to severe and each will require its own approach depending on the situation. Examples: A student argues in favour of a problematic politician or policy, e.g. Trump’s wall, in a classroom discussion.”

In addition, children should be aware of classmates who invoke “a free speech issue” in political conversations. Citing free speech was among “common defenses of hate propaganda,” said the guide.

Bernie Farber, chair of the Canadian Anti-Hate Network said the booklet would lead a whole campaign to educate young people and “fight and win against hate.”

“The point of this free toolkit is to help parents, educators and the community identify and intervene when a young person is being groomed and recruited by a white supremacist movement before it is too late,” said Farber. “It’s not just a free toolkit. The Canadian Anti-Hate Network is launching a whole education program.”

Originally published at www.TNC.news

Covid Vaccines Worse Than Useless, May Be Deadly

Continued from p.2

- The initially performed conventional post-mortems also uncovered no obvious hints to a possible role of vaccination, since the macroscopic appearance of the organs was overall unremarkable. In most cases, “rhythmogenic heart failure” was postulated as the cause of death.
- But our subsequent histopathological analyses then brought about a complete turnaround. The autopsy study was done on 15 patients who died, ages 28 to 95 (from 7 days to 6 months after last injection)

Histopathologic studies: findings

Histopathologic findings of a similar nature were detected in organs of 14 of the 15 deceased. Most frequently afflicted was the heart (14 of 15 cases) and the lung (13 of 15 cases). Pathologic alterations were furthermore observed in the liver (2 cases), thyroid gland (Hashimoto’s thyroiditis, 2 cases), salivary glands (Sjögren’s Syndrome; 2 cases) and brain (2 cases).

A number of salient aspects dominated in all affected tissues of all cases:

1. inflammatory events in small blood vessels (endoT-lymphocytes and theliitis), characterized by an abundance of sequestered, dead endothelial cells within the vessel lumen;
2. the extensive perivascular accumulation of T-lymphocytes;
3. a massive lymphocytic infiltration of surrounding non-lymphatic organs or tissue with T-lymphocytes.

Lymphocytic infiltration occasionally occurred in combination with intense lymphocytic activation and follicle formation. Where these were present, they were usually accompanied by tissue destruction.

This combination of multifocal, T-lymphocyte-dominated pathology that clearly reflects the process of immunological self-attack is without precedent. Because vaccination was the single common denominator between all cases, there can be no doubt that it was the trigger of self-destruction in these deceased individuals.

Conclusion

Histopathologic analysis shows clear evidence of vaccine-induced autoimmune-like pathology in multiple organs. That myriad adverse events deriving from such auto-attack processes must be expected to very frequently occur in all individuals, particularly following booster injections, is self-evident.

Beyond any doubt, injection of gene-based COVID-19 vaccines places lives under threat of illness and death. We note that both mRNA and vector-based vaccines are represented among these cases, as are all four major manufacturers.

This article was originally published on doctors4covidethics.org

Free To Fly (Canada) Legal Update

By FreeToFly.ca

Free to Fly Canada has retained prominent BC lawyer Umar Sheikh, as we move to a new phase in seeking justice for the Canadian aviation sector. It’s time.

This past year, Canadian union representation largely chose the path of least resistance, failing to push back, grieve policy or take a collective stand against coercive mandates. Aviation unions and employers have been complicit in the most widespread violation of God-given freedoms in our modern history.

We intend to assist as many aviation professionals as possible, address the abdication of responsibility that left them exposed, pursue justice where harm has been done and ensure this never happens again. This campaign will not be limited to the unvaccinated, but is open to tens of thousands of aviation employees who were coerced into a medical procedure.

For further info, go to <https://linktr.ee/FreetoFlyCanada>

Distributed independently & completely free of charge.
August 2022 circulation: 200,000 copies Canada-wide
Original content DRUTHERS 2022®
Publisher & Editor in Chief: Shawn Jason
Assistant editor: Christie Lynn
Production Manager & Layout: David Bolton
Big thanks to: Kristy, Tiantian, Mitchell, Bob, Jessica, Tim, Michelle & so many more...
Comments & General Inquiries: info@druthers.net
Help Distribute Papers In Your Area: info@druthers.net
News Tips & Article Submissions: editor@druthers.net

“Please world, be kind to one another. We really are just one big earth family. Thank you. I love you. Keep on passing it on.” - Shawn Jason

Views of columnists and bylined feature writers as expressed are not necessarily those of DRUTHERS.

Special thanks to all those giving their valuable time to help freely distribute DRUTHERS.

Thank you also to all who have generously donated to make this free newspaper a reality.

Although the paper is FREE, it costs us to produce, print and distribute it. If you appreciate our efforts, please help us print more papers next month by making a donation.

Please give what you can: druthers.net/donate

Or send an e-transfer to: admin@druthers.net

Cash, cheques & money orders can be made out to and mailed to: Shawn Jason Laplante
P.O. Box 40531
Six Points Plaza, Toronto, Ontario M9B 6K8

News From Around The World

By Paul Bennett

Vatican Issues Coins Related to Vaccines & War in Ukraine

The Vatican has recently issued a commemorative series of coins and medals highlighting the Ukrainian war and promoting the importance of vaccines. According to the Philatelic and Numismatic Office in the Vatican, issuing a 20-euro silver coin depicting a doctor, a nurse, and a young person about to receive their vaccination was “dedicated to a current theme that is very close to Pope Francis’ heart: treatments to counter the pandemic and (promoting) the need to be vaccinated. All three characters on the coin are wearing face masks. The papal office reported: “The Holy Father has repeatedly stressed the importance of vaccination, recalling that healthcare is ‘a moral obligation’ and it is important to ‘continue efforts to immunize even the poorest people.’” Dr. Fulvio Di Blasi, author of Vaccination as an Act of Love? Epistemology of Ethical Choice in Times of Pandemics reacted to the issuing of the coins by saying: “A Vatican commemorative coin dedicated to the ‘need to be vaccinated’ against Covid-19 is something serious scholars and people of goodwill would have gladly done without.” The eminent Italian scholar Di Blasi further added: “I receive this news with a mixture of deep pain and concern for a Church that is increasingly in a crisis of identity and truth. These drugs are not technically vaccines; they statistically kill a number of people, and, according to the latest studies, they even have negative efficacy. While judicial rulings against them multiply more and more, the Vatican increases fanatical support for them, which is not scientific at all, and which is foreign to revealed truth.”

The virtue signaling continued in the Vatican with an official silver medal to peace in Ukraine. The Philatelic and Numismatic Office in the Vatican said: “One side of the medal depicts a family fleeing from a city destroyed by bombs with their entire lives in a suitcase; a child carries a soft toy as the family is guided by a young mother who is walking towards us reminding us of our duty to welcome and show solidarity. “The cost of the medal is 50 Euros. It comes as no surprise that a powerful institution such as the Vatican is shilling hard for its globalist friends. In May 2021, the Pope hosted an online Vatican health conference that was attended by many huge players who drove the Covid narrative lie. Attendees included Pfizer CEO Albert Bourla, Moderna CEO Stephane Bancel, and Dr. Anthony Fauci. The conference focused on exploring methods of prevention and preparedness against health crises. In August 2021, the Vatican imposed strict medical apartheid under the guise of a “Green Pass” on staff and residents who failed to get the experimental jab. This Pope appears to be constantly preaching from the World Economic Forum (WEF) rule book and iterates Agenda 2030/Agenda 21 principles in his rhetoric. In a recent letter to young people attending an EU Youth Conference in Prague, Pope Francis urged young people to eat less meat and “break this self-destructive trend” of consumerism and prioritize sustainability.” He added, “it is convenient to consume less meat, this can help save the environment.”

Ukrainian Court Permanently Bans Opposition Party & Takes Its Assets

Faux humanitarian President of Ukraine, Volodymyr Zelensky, recently signed an undemocratic bill in the Ukrainian Parliament outlawing the activities of all pro-Russian political parties. This resulted in a court ruling in favour of the Ministry of Justice in the western city of Lviv on June 20th by the Eighth Administrative Court of Appeal permanently banning the activities of 10 political parties with pro-Russian stances. In a statement issued on the official Ukrainian Justice Ministry Facebook page, it read: “The court satisfied the claims of the Ministry of Justice of Ukraine: the activities of the opposition political party ‘For Life’ were banned; the funds and other assets of the party, its regional city, district organizations, primary organizations and other structural entities were transferred to the ownership of the state.” For Life received the 2nd highest number of votes in 2019 during the Ukrainian parliamentary election and held 44 seats in the Ukrainian Parliament prior to the outbreak of the war. Chesno, a Ukrainian election integrity civil movement group set up in 2011 said: “Due to the fact that the court did not allow journalists into the courtroom, the arguments of the parties to the trial aren’t known and will become available only after the full court decision is made public.” The Ukrainian government has also disturbingly voted through two laws placing restrictions on Russian books and music in the country. On June 19, Parliament (Verkhovna Rada) adopted a law banning the import of certain books and music from the Russian Federation and Belarus, alongside the regions in the eastern part of the country. The sinister development was welcomed by ‘lawmakers’ in Ukraine. According to Ukraine’s culture minister Oleksandr Tkaachenko, he was “glad to welcome” the Draconian laws. He added: “The laws are designed to help Ukrainian authors share quality content with the widest possible audience, which after the Russian invasion do not accept any Russian creative product on a physical level.” The anti-democratic attack and clear censorship of political opposition and Russian culture in Ukraine has been ignored by most Western governments and media outlets. Anti-Russian sentiment and ‘derussification’ is now welcomed and accepted by nations that shamelessly preach tolerance, democracy, and liberty.

Spanish Pharma President Caught Falsifying Jab Status

An undercover Spanish investigation team looking into criminal activity that sold fake Covid vaccine certificates have uncovered thousands of people seeking to have their names added to a Covid vaccine database despite not getting the trial jab. The investigation was under the umbrella name of ‘Operation Jenner’. According to the Spanish newspaper El Mundo: “A vast network of celebrities and elites paid money to have their names fraudulently entered on the National Immunization Register despite refusing to be vaccinated.” Euro Weekly News reported: “The leader of the network was a nursing assistant at the La Paz University Hospital, where he is accused of charging more than €200,000 for fraudulently registering 2,200 people as vaccinated in the Spanish National Registry against Covid-19. He has been arrested and is currently in custody.” Prominent people from the world of music, film, business, sport, and medicine were caught fabricating their jab status. One of the most interesting and high-profile names listed was Spanish boss and founder Jose Maria Fernandez Sousa-Faro of the large pharmaceutical company PharmaMar. PharmaMar is one of the largest pharmaceutical companies in Spain and specializes in researching drug treatment for Alzheimer’s, cancer and ironically Covid. According to ABC News in Spain, the 76-year-old businessman and pharma boss used the illegal scheme to appear as though he had the third dose in the official Spanish database, while other relatives availed of the same service, according to police sources. ABC News reported that the Pharma boss paid an organization a ‘VIP Fee’ of between €1,000 and €2,000 to be added to the Spanish vaccine register. It is alleged that Sousa-Faro was injected with saline instead of the Covid jab.

The acclaimed Dr. Sousa-Faro has worked in the pharmaceutical industry for over 35 years and has more than 90 scientific publications and patents to his name, in the fields of biochemistry, antibiotics, and molecular biology. When a powerful and wealthy CEO of a large Pharma company goes to such extreme lengths not to take the experimental jab, one really needs to pay attention and ask the obvious question — Why?

President of Ireland Links Massacre of Christians in Nigeria to Climate Change

In early June, at least 50 Christians celebrating a Pentecost Sunday Mass were callously murdered during a ceremony at St. Francis Catholic Church in Owo, in southwestern Nigeria. Authorities have linked the attack to Islamic extremists. Nina Shea, a human rights lawyer, advocate, and expert in international religious freedom at the Hudson Institute in Washington D.C. told the Catholic News Agency (CWA) that “it was clear that large scale, war-like attacks on Catholics and other Christians are spreading in a system of impunity.” In response to the cowardly terrorist attack, the President of Ireland, Michael D. Higgins, issued a bizarre statement regarding the evil massacre, saying: “That such an attack was made in a place of worship is a source of particular condemnation, as is any attempt to scapegoat pastoral peoples who are among the foremost victims of the consequences of climate change.” He added: “The neglect of food security issues in Africa for so long, has brought us to a point of crisis that is now having internal and regional effects based on struggles, ways of life themselves.” Higgins finished insensitively by saying: “The solidarity of us all, as peoples of the world, is owed to all those impacted not only by this horrible event but in the struggle by the most vulnerable on whom the consequences of climate change have been inflicted.” Higgins’ statement drew criticism from many, including a leading bishop in the Ondo region of Nigeria. Bishop Jude Ayodeji Arogundade issued a response on his Facebook page — “To suggest or make a connection between victims of terror and consequences of climate change is not only misleading but also exactly rubbing salt to the injuries of all who have suffered terrorism in Nigeria. Alluding to some form of politics of climate change in our situation is completely inappropriate. Such comments associating banditry, kidnapping and gruesome attacks on innocent and harmless citizens of Nigeria with issues concerning climate change and food securities are deflections from the truth.” President Higgins brazenly tried to sidestep his disgraceful remarks when rightfully criticized. A spokesman for the President told The Irish Times — “The President’s comments with regard to climate change related to the plight of pastoral peoples in the region and the President made no link in his statement between climate change and the attack itself.” It is no surprise to see such a casual attitude from European leaders about the persecution of Christians across the world. Recently, the European Parliament voted against debating the plight of all Christians who are persecuted and in danger across the world. French MEP Jean-Paul Garraud said the European Commission “does not want to designate a coordinator for the fight against Christianophobia, when a coordinator of this type was created for anti-Semitism and Islamophobia.” It is quite incredulous that a President of any nation would try to relate the massacre of a large group of churchgoers to climate change. The obsessive ‘religion and cult’ of climate change is laid bare with Mr. Higgins ill-judged and distasteful comments.

Absurdity Observer

Some Of The Most Absurd Things That Have Happened In Recent Weeks

- Quadruple vaccinated Joe Biden experiences symptoms and tests positive for COVID-19. It was nearly exactly one year ago when Biden announced that “You are not going to get COVID if you have these vaccinations.”
- Article titled “Increasing SARS-Cov2 cases, hospitalizations, and deaths among the vaccinated ...” (Emani et al.) finds “the vaccine effectiveness (VE) for the third dose was negative since December 20, 2021, with significantly increased proportion of SARS-CoV2 cases, hospitalizations and deaths among the vaccinated; and a decreased proportion of cases, hospitalizations, and deaths among the unvaccinated.” They concluded, “There is no discernible vaccine effectiveness among ≥18 years of age, vaccinated third dose population since the beginning of the Omicron variant surge.” These findings are consistent with Ontario data.
- Shortly after alternative news sources, like Druthers, published that Ontario Public Health’s data was showing an alarming trend of the “triple-vaccinated” getting COVID-19 at rates of more than double that of the “not fully vaccinated,” Ontario Public Health removed publicly accessible data on the vaccination status and COVID-positivity status of Ontarians.
- Article titled “Duration of immune protection of SARS-CoV-2 natural infection against reinfection in Qatar” (Chemaitelly et al.) finds that the effectiveness of primary infection against severe, critical, or fatal COVID-19 reinfection was 97.3% irrespective of the variant of infection or reinfection, with no evidence of waning.”
- Tens of thousands of farmers have gathered from all across the Netherlands to protest government policies that are deliberately shrinking the farming sector, impacting the livelihood of thousands of farmers and the food supply of literally hundreds of millions of people. Meanwhile, here in Canada, the same “climate crisis” playbook is being used (perhaps in an attempt to have farms fail, allow for land to be purchased by billionaires, and control the food supply.) Trudeau instigated a 30% fertilizer reduction policy while still allowing Glyphosate, the most widely used herbicide in Canada, to poison our country.
- A new UN report shows that a record 345 million people are acutely hungry and are ‘marching to the brink of starvation.’ In early 2020, before the COVID-19 pandemic, the figure was 135 million.
- Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada announced that the federal government is investing up to $8.5 million into what will be the world’s largest cricket production facility. The government said the investment to Aspire (London, ON) was “to support the building of a commercial facility to produce cricket protein.”
- 3 young doctors working at Trillium Health in Mississauga, Ontario (Dr. Sawicki, Dr. Segall, & Dr. McKenzie) die of “sudden and unexpected” causes over the course of just one week, the same week a marathon runner and well-known doctor at a different hospital also in the Toronto General Area, (Dr. Hannam), died unexpectedly while out for a morning jog.
- “Deaths of unknown causes” is now Alberta’s #1 killer. According to Alberta Health’s data (open.alberta.ca), unknown causes of death have increased approximately 2.4 times in 2021 compared to the previous year. A few months ago, a pathology study by Dr. Bhakdi & Dr. Burkhardt showed ~93% of people who died of “unknown causes” after being vaccinated had “clear evidence of vaccine-induced autoimmune-like pathology.” The autopsy study was done on 15 patients who died (from 7 days to 6 months) after receiving the COVID vaccine. These were all cases where the officials ruled death was NOT caused by the vaccine. They discovered that in 14 of the 15 patients, there was widespread evidence of autoimmune tissue destruction (via killer lymphocytic infiltration) in ways that have never been described in the medical literature before the COVID vaccines. The heart was attacked in all 14 cases.

- The World Health Organization (WHO) has declared the monkeypox outbreak a public health emergency of international concern. The decision was announced July 23 after WHO convened its second emergency committee where WHO’s own expert panel voted 9-6 against the emergency declaration. WHO chief overruled the panel and declared an emergency. The two-dose repurposed smallpox vaccine, Imvamune, has begun its roll-out in Canada.
- Mastercard, in partnership with the UN, to start measuring the carbon footprint of your purchases. The new CO2 monitoring credit card, called “Doconomy,” is designed to stop working (& put you into a financial “lockdown”) when you hit your “carbon max.”
- Journal of Food and Chemical Toxicology article (Seneff et al.) finds that “vaccination induces a profound impairment in type I interferon signalling,” which hinders one’s immune system and “has diverse adverse consequences to human health.” The study also found vaccination has “potential profound disturbances in regulatory control of protein synthesis and cancer surveillance.”
- Health Canada authorizes use of mRNA COVID-19 vaccines in children 6 months to 5 years of age despite a CDC study (April 26 MMWR, Clarke et al.) finding that, as of February 2022, over 75% of children are carrying antibodies from previous infection and there is perhaps a perfect recovery rate in these children. The true recovery rate is unknown due to Health Canada not separating the data of those who were hospitalized or died “of” COVID vs “with” COVID. On June 15th, a Vaccine and Related Biological Products Advisory committee meeting noted that 1 in 83 Moderna vaccinated infants experienced a severe adverse event and 1 in 71 Pfizer vaccinated infants experienced a severe adverse event (see Dr. Jessica Rose).

- Toddlers’ speech and motor skills have dropped sharply in the wake of the pandemic, official data show. The Royal College of Speech and Language Therapists (RCSLT), Assessments show that one in five children are not meeting expected standards by age 2½, with referrals to speech and language therapy doubling since the pandemic. Communication skills suffered one of the most significant falls in performance.
- A study done on neighbouring North Dakota school districts titled “Association between school mask mandates and SARS-CoV-2 infections” (Sood et al.) finds “no significant difference between (cumulative) student case rates while the districts had differing masking policies.”
- It’s no longer just a COVID thing. After installing various checkpoints between provinces over the course of the COVID-19 pandemic and creating a “Red Zone” in Ottawa during the Freedom Convoy, Canada’s normalization of checkpoints continues. Police checkpoints covered Whitby, ON in late July during a meeting of the Hell’s Angels Motorcycle club, where they checked ID’s.
- Freedom Convoy organizer Pat King is finally granted bail after 150 days in jail. Meanwhile, Tamara Lich, another Freedom Convoy organizer who was arrested and held for weeks without bail, has been arrested and jailed without bail again for allegedly violating “no-contact” bail conditions placed on her after being charged for her role in February’s demonstration.
- Disturbing study published to the Lancet and reviewed by Virology (Adverse effects of COVID-19 vaccines and measures to prevent them by Yamamoto) finds “immune function among vaccinated individuals 8 months after the administration of two doses of COVID vaccine was lower than that among the unvaccinated.” According to the European Med Agency, “frequent booster shots could adversely affect the immune response.”
- Explosive data from the Department of Defense DMED database of 1.4M active duty DoD servicemen shows shocking increases in medical conditions from mRNA “vaccines” after the military demanded injections for all service members. The data, obtained by 3 courageous DoD whistleblowers and shared by attorney Tom Renz and senator Ron Johnson, showed the following: 487% spike in breast cancer, 551% spike in Guillain-Barré syndrome, 269% spike in myocardial infarction, 468% spike in pulmonary embolism, 291% spike in Bell’s palsy, 437% spike in ovarian dysfunction, 279% spike in miscarriages, 680% spike in multiple sclerosis, 664% spike in malignant neoplasms, plus other condition increases.

VOLUNTEER

Will you help give out these free papers in your community?

Or maybe you can help in other ways?
We'd love to hear from you.
Visit us at: druthers.net/volunteer

DONATE

Your support is vital to the continued success of this paper.

E-transfer to: admin@druthers.net
Or visit: druthers.net/donate

SUBSCRIBE

Have your Druthers delivered right to your door each month.

Never miss an issue with a postal subscription.
Just cover the cost of s/h.
Sign up at: druthers.net/subscribe

DRUTHERS is entirely funded, written, distributed & promoted by the people, for the people.

Note: Please do not leave Druthers inside the newspaper boxes of other newspapers. As well, any inserts found in this paper are not endorsed by Druthers.